SOMEONE ALWAYS HAS TO LOSE

Where there's a winner, someone has to lose—but that's small consolation to runner-up John Slatter, 14 months old, in Boston Girls' Club Mr. Bunker Hill contest. Winner Joseph Brassal, 2, munches a lollypop, as he sits on his new throne while his sister, Cathleen, 6, seems indifferent to the contest.

HUBERT SPEAKS OUT

...Favors Open Vote In Vietnam

Washington (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Wednesday he favors open elections in South Vietnam with all elements — including the Communists — able to take part. He did not rule out the possibility of a freely elected Communist government.

Humphrey said in a prepared speech handed to newsmen that "South Vietnam should be run by the people who live there, not by Hanoi or Washington."

"This means free elections — elections in which all can vote and all can run for office with guarantees against force and intimidation, elections in which every group willing to do so can play its full part in the peaceful political process.

"And it means being willing to accept the results of these elections, whatever they may be."

The vice president's use of the term "every group," a Humphrey aide said, included the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, if the Communists wished to participate.

However, at a news conference later, Humphrey declined to say whether he favored allowing the NLF to participate as a political party in any future election in South Vietnam.

"I am not running the politics of South Vietnam," he said. "That's as far as I'll go."

Humphrey said the remarks in his speech about free elections were statements made "about 45 times" previously.

But the statement made Wednesday was the first time an administration official has indicated he would be willing to accept the NLF as a party in South Vietnamese politics.

The White House, as well as the Saigon government, has repeatedly stated that it could not accept elections with the NLF in the role of a political party.

The White House would not comment on the statement, except to say that the President had not seen nor asked to see a copy of the prepared speech.

'Alternative'

In the text of his speech, Humphrey said he views his campaign for the White House as an opportunity to advance "the commitments of a lifetime . . . to strengthen the alternative to conflict — at home and in the world."

"Conflict — hot or cold — is costing us too much today," Humphrey added. "I have always considered a more peaceful and just world within our grasp — not just pie in the sky. And the same goes for an America where all citizens can have an equal chance to share in the promise of this great nation."

These goals, he said, prompted him to run for president.

However, the continuing hostilities in Southeast Asia, as well as recent events in Eastern Europe, "testify to the difficulty of achieving these objectives, even as the survival of mankind compels us to pursue them."

LBJ Denounces Steel Price Hikes

Pittsburgh (AP) — The nation's two biggest steelmakers — U.S. Steel Corp. and Bethlehem Steel Corp. — announced price hikes Wednesday and President Johnson denounced Bethlehem's across the board hike as "unreasonable."

The President added that Bethlehem's action, the first general price boost since President Kennedy's dramatic price battle with the steel industry in 1961, "just should not be permitted to stand."

He did not mention U.S. Steel at an impromptu news conference in Washington. He said under questioning he was interested in the across the board aspect which he said could affect the whole range of products made of steel.

Johnson said the boosts could lead to a price increase of $500 million to the American consumer and voiced hope "other steel companies will not join this parade."

In reaction to the President's statement, a Bethlehem spokesman said: "Our announcement this morning speaks for itself. In our opinion, our price increase is absolutely necessary and we do not intend to withdraw it."

Other companies hinted they were ready to follow, saying more revenue was needed to compensate for the new billion-dollar-plus contract won by the United Steelworkers Union Tuesday night.

"Our decision will be based entirely on costs . . . and not any noise from Washington," said Inland Steel, which in 1962 stood against the general price increase and started the rollback.

Announcement A Surprise

Since then, the industry has raised prices piecemeal, hoping to avoid another confrontation with the many weapons of the federal government. That's why Bethlehem Steel's announcement of an increse of almost five per cent on base prices, effective Aug. 8, spread surprise across the industry.

"The price increases are expected to add only enough revenues to offset cost increases just incurred or expected in the next several months," said Bethlehem, the nation's second largest producer.

"Selective price increases have not been effective in offsetting smaller increases than those now facing Bethlehem. A general price increase is the only method available to alleviate the financial problem which would otherwise occur in the immediate future."

U.S. Steel Corp., the biggest producer by far and usually the pacesetter for industry prices, posted a new list of prices for its tin mill products that adds up to an overall increase.

Nora Residents Fighting To Maintain Post Office

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Nora — The bank went in the '30s, the high school in 1943. The post office appears to be next — but not without a blazing battle.

One of six Nebraska post offices scheduled for August closing, little Nora is probably resisting the strongest. Its 116 boxholders — only 16 of them within the "city limits" — even sent a man to Washington.

While a postal official mapped out plans to serve Nora out of Ruskin, last-ditch strategy was being discussed less than a block away. At a quickly-called "town meeting," Eilert Bargen reported on his capitol protests that went as high as the assistant postmaster general.

"In a way I'm optimistic and in another way I'm not," said the silver-haired farmer, 74. "I'm confident we could keep open if the Postal Department could get the tax law changed, but I don't know whether Congress can be so persuaded."

The longtime Nuckolls countian explained that committees of both houses have expressed interest in rescinding postal employe cutbacks. It was manpower restrictions of the new tax bill which prompted the announced August closing of 347 fourth class offices over the nation.

Nebraska shutdowns in addition to Nora are Garland, Panama and Strang, all Aug. 2; and Cedar Creek, Aug. 30. Nuckolls County will lose a second post office next month, since Ivan King of Angus is not to be replaced when he retires.

Barring Changes

Chauffeured by daughter Mrs. Warren Moore of a Washington suburb, Bargen contacted most of Nebraska's Congressional delegation. Assistant Postmaster General W. Carson Browning told him that, barring changes in law, "we'll see the day when all fourth class post offices are closed as well as some of third class."

Spearheading Nora's effort is its town board chairman, Clyde Gerbeling. The lifelong resident owns a repair shop which is one of the town's two remaining businesses.

The other is Farmers Co-op Elevator, proudly pointed to as "doing $719,000 of business last year." A 15% increase in postal receipts placed Nora in the second high of six categories for fourth class post offices.

Last fall's resignation of regular postmaster Jesse Hamel due to ill health is considered an unfortunate factor. Local residents believe their town would have escaped the hatchet if the appointment of acting postmaster Earl Lanham already had been confirmed.

"We still have a grade school and the Methodist Church, and we know our town is worth more than the several dozen protest letters we've written," said Gerbeling. "We also know too well that if the post office goes, what we have left goes with it."

Liquor Discounts Ban Supported At Hearing

By Associated Press

Retail liquor licensees came before the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission to favor the recent ruling prohibiting discounts on large-volume wholesale sales.

The commission left the hearing open for 30 days to anyone wanting to file a statement for the record before any decision will be made.

Some opponents stood when a head count was called for but only Lincoln attorney Partick Healey, representing several retailers, offered opposing testimony.

Changed Mind

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff asked for the hearing and admitted afterwards he'd changed his mind about the ruling.

At the outset Carpenter said he favored the discount feature "for selfish reasons" as a licensee himself, but the "predominant number here favors the commission's stand."

That being the case, Carpenter said he favors making all wholesale prices the same, no matter where the retailer is located.

He pointed out there is a wide range of shipping costs added to the wholesale price, increasing with the delivery distance from Omaha.

It is "completely ridiculous" that there is a difference, Carpenter said.

Carpenter blamed part of the pricing problems on the distilleries' rates.

Tread Slowly

Omaha attorney Jack Marber, representing all wholesalers in Nebraska except one in Alliance, said the commission must "tread slowly" with setting rates which involve shipping costs.

"Freight does not fall within the jurisdiction of the liquor commission," he said.

Marber also said the wholesalers are interested in the retailers' economic welfare and all for open competition.

The retailers addressing the commission, for the most part, hailed the ruling for putting the small volume-buyer on the same footing with the large-volume businesses.

'Disservice'

One retailer from Omaha said consumers have been given a "disservice" because the retailers have spent "so much time with these deals" that their patrons have been neglected.

Healey said "government has no proper business in taking sides between doing different ways of business" and the discount system is "a standard part of retailing."

3 Men Killed In Collision At Loup City

Loup City (AP) — A two-car collision on Highway 58 about five miles southeast of here claimed three lives Wednesday.

Killed outright at the scene were Ethan William St. John, 55, Grand Island, and Tom Polski, about 70, of Loup City.

A third man, A. C. (Pete) Ogle, 84, a retired farmer from the Loup City area, died a few hours later at a Hastings hospital of internal injuries.

Sherman County Sheriff Virgil Kaminski said Ogle's car was traveling north and St. John's car was headed south when the collision occurred. Polski was a passenger in Ogle's car.

The deaths raised the 1968 Nebraska highway fatality toll to 240, compared with 238 on this date one year ago.

JAMES H. BYRD

Pen Inmate Pleads Guilty To Assault

A guilty plea to an assault charge was entered by James H. Byrd, 28, in Lancaster District Court Wednesday.

Byrd, who was involved with the slaying of a Lincoln police detective last August, was charged with assaulting another prisoner.

Sentencing was deferred by Judge Elmer Scheele, pending presentence investigation by the adult probation officer. Byrd is serving a life sentence for his part in the slaying of Det. Paul Whitehead on a Lincoln street last August.

Byrd was charged with stabbing James Ray Moore, 23, of Omaha, with a scissors in the state penitentiary yard last Saturday.

Moore, who was serving a 12-year term for rape, suffered wounds to the arm and chest.

Byrd had escaped from an Indiana prison on Aug. 3, 1967, where he was serving a life term for infliciting physical injury while committing robbery.

Howard Crooks was also sentenced to a life term in connection with the Whitehead slaying. A first degree murder charge against Arthur C. Murray is still pending.

House Okays Ag Bill; Adds Limits

Washington (UPI) — The House late Wednesday passed legislation to extend for one year, through 1970, major government farm price supports, but to limit payments to individual farms to $20,000 a year.

The vote on passage was 213-176.

A 230-160 vote approved the ceiling on federal payments, sponsored by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., despite warnings by farm leaders that this would wreck the government's programs of production control and price support.

But arguments that the payments primarily benefit the "fat cats" carried the day. Backers of the ceiling told of farms which receive more than $1 million a year in federal payments for land taken out of production.

House and Senate conferees now must be appointed to iron out differences between the House bill and a measure approved earlier this month by the Senate which would extend current programs for four years, through 1973.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., of the Senate Agriculture Committee, has said he will accept nothing less than a four-year extension.

Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, promised the House he would hold out for one year.

Some members thought the $20,000 limitation wrecked remaining prospects for final enactment of a farm law extension this year. Opinions differed on whether this posed any serious problem.

Hopes Dimmed

It appeared certain that House-Senate conferees would knock out the limitation, since most farm bloc members oppose it as unworkable. However, this dispute, coupled with the argument over the conflicting one-year and four-year extensions, dimmed hopes for agreement.

"This is a good piece of demagoguery," Poage shouted during debate on the motion by Conte. "That's all you can say for it."

Man Hurt In Crash

A 24-year-old Lincoln man was seriously injured in a one-car accident on Interstate 180 near Oak Lake early Thursday.

Police said the car, which was heading south toward Lincoln, apparently went out of control and swerved off the highway into a pole near the lake.

The engine was completely separated from the body of the car.

The name of the victim was being withheld pending notification of relatives.

House Delays Bill To Block Postal Cutback

Washington (AP) — The House postponed for one day Wednesday action on a Senate-approved measure to exempt postal workers from a congressional mandate forcing personnel reductions in the executive branch.

House leaders rescheduled the bill as the first order of business Thursday. The House will convene an hour earlier than its usual noon starting time.

Congress is working against a Friday deadline to prevent a curtailment of mail service threatened by Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson to begin on Saturday.

Watson said his department could not handle a personnel cutback because of the increase in its work load. He also told Congress if his agency is not excluded from the Congressional mandate, he would have to cut back mail service and close some post offices.

New York Times News Summary

Czech-Soviet Talks Said More Matter-Of-Fact

(C) New York Times News Service

Prague — Czechoslovakia awaited the close of showdown talks between leaders of the Czechoslovak and Soviet Communist Parties amid reports that the atmosphere had changed abruptly from polemical speeches to a matter-of-fact exchange of views. Presidents Tito of Yugoslavia and Ceausescu of Rumania are said to have met in secret last week in the hunting country along the Rumanian-Yugoslav frontier to coordinate political strategy aimed at deterring a possible Soviet military intervention in Czechoslovakia. (More on Pages 2, 30.)

LBJ Considers Escalation

Washington — President Johnson said he believed that the enemy was preparing a "massive attack" in South Vietnam and that it may be necessary to take "additional military measure" in the Vietnam war. In an unscheduled news conference Johnson said he could not order a total bombing halt in North Vietnam while danger of a new major offensive existed in the South. (More on Page 8.)

Pope Speaks Of Suffering

Rome — Pope Paul VI spoke of his spiritual suffering in issuing his encyclical renewing the ban on birth control and asked Christian married couples to understand and seek inspiration in it. New York's Archbishop Terence J. Cooke reaffirmed his support of the Pope's controversial ban (More on Page 2.)

Latin America Apprehensive

Washington — Recent congressional cuts in the foreign aid program have caused a "crisis of confidence" in Latin America over the United States willingness to honor its commitments under the Alliance for Progress, the secretary general of the Organization of American States said. But as Galo Plaza spoke to Washington newsmen, the Senate refused to restore part of the $1 billion slashed from President Johnson's original request and passed a $1.94 billion foreign aid bill. The vote was 46 to 28. (More on Pages 31, 16.)

Brother 'Losing Faith'

Uturu, Biafra — "I'm losing my faith in humanity," said Brother Aloysius, after the 33rd child in 11 days was buried outside the Biafran seminary turned children's hospital. The brothers have not even an aspirin left to give the children, who lie dying on straw mats on the floor. Their need is not only food but medicine, the Marist brothers say.

Steel Industry Counseled

Washington — President Johnson said at a hastily arranged news conference that the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s five per cent across-the-board steel price increase would have "dire economic consequences for the nation and urged other steel producers not to follow it. If the industry follows suit, the price of an automobile could rise $12 and bathtubs go up 44 cents. (More on Page 1.)

Nixon Agrees With Reagan

Miami Beach — Presidential hopeful Richard M. Nixon agreed with Gov. Ronald Reagan on the need to wage a "crusade against crime." Nixon's right of center stand was interpreted as an attempt to woo conservative support away from the California governor. Both testified before the Republican platform committee in Miami Beach. Meanwhile informed sources said that the Harris Poll will report on Friday that Governor Rockefeller could defeat either of the Democratic presidential hopefuls and Nixon could beat neither. (More on Page 15.)

Humphrey In Money

Washington — With 26 days to go before the Democratic National Convention, Vice President Humphrey no longer has to worry about cancelling television advertising as he did two weeks ago. His recent California trip brought in $1.5 million in campaign contributions.

Soviet-Czech Meet Continues

Prague (AP) — An apparent last-minute snag sent Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders into conference again Wednesday night after what had been thought the closing session of Czechoslovakia's future.

There was speculation difficulties devloped over the wording of the communique on the results of Moscow's efforts to swing the liberal-minded Czechoslovaks back to orthodox communism.

Informed sources said Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev rejoined the talks after being ill in the afternoon.

The sources said the talks would continue into Thursday.

The unexpected resumption came after Czechoslovak news media had already prepared but not published stories announcing the end of the talks.

Newsmen at the conference scene at Cierna in East Slovakia were told to go to a news conference in the town on the Soviet border, but when they went there they found it had been cancelled.

There was no explanation for the reversal.

Earlier, sources said the conference had shown "a certain softening" in the Soviet position.

Issues on which the Soviet Union had applied political pressure and the threat of military action, implicit in massive maneuvers, included new freedoms of speech and assembly under Dubcek's liberal regime and the Kremlin's desire to base Russian or other foreign Communist troops within Czechoslovakia.

The Russians wanted guarantee's that Czechoslovakia would not drift away from the Communist camp. They were expected to take the general line of demands made at the Warsaw meeting of five Communist parties earlier this month, including a reintroduction of press censorship.

East German Official Confers With Soviet

© New York Times Service

Berlin — East German Defense Minister Hienz Hoffmann conferred in Moscow with his Soviet counterpart, Marshal Andrei Grechko, as massive troop movements of Soviet forces in East Germany continued Wednesday for the seventh straight day.

The East German press kept up their bitter attacks against the Czech reformers, with Neues Deutschland, the Communist Party paper, once more levelling a charge of "counter-revolution" against Czechoslovak officials and intellectuals.

The East German radio network has started beaming propaganda broadcasts to Czechoslovakia denouncing the country's new 'liberal communism.

Neues Deutschland reported that among high-powered officers present at the meeting between Hoffmann and Grechko were the Soviet chief of staff, the head of the army's political department, the deputy chief of staff, and the chief of staff of the Warsaw Pact military alliance.

The meeting was seen to be linked with massive Russian field maneuvers currently held in the Soviet Union, Poland and East Germany. The paper said Hoffmann was in the Soviet Union for a vacation, indicating the war games were staged by the Russians in a surprise action.

The Russians have approximately 300,000 men, or 20 divisions, in the eastern part of Germany.

Sirhan Plea Ready Friday, Lawyer Says

Los Angeles (UPI) — "I think we'll be ready to plead Friday," says Russell E. Parsons, attorney for Sirhan B. Sirhan, the 24-year-old native of Jordan accused of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Parsons said Tuesday that the plea to be submitted for Sirhan still has not been decided because he is awaiting receipt of a second psychiatric report on the suspect.

The attorney added that once the decision on the plea has been reached, he does not expect to make it public.

"I don't think I should," Parsons said. "We'll announce it in court when our case is called."

Parsons said one of the psychiatrists who examined Sirhan has been out of town and his finding won't be available until later in the week.

Pope Appeals To Couples To Accept Encyclical

Castel Gandolfo, Italy (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, obviously distressed by world wide reaction, appealed Wednesday to all Christian married couples to accept his controversial encyclical on birth control "for its human truth."

Speaking to several thousand pilgrims and tourists at his summer residence here, the pontiff said he had "no doubt" his decision was the right one although it was reached after "no small suffering" on his part.

It was the 70-year-old Pope's first public statement on the encyclical Humane Vitae (of Human Life) since it was published Monday.

In the encyclical, the Pope not only reaffirmed the Roman Catholic Church ban on all artificial means of birth control but called on world governments to outlaw contraceptive devices.

The encyclical stirred up a storm up controversy — probably the most passionate that has greeted any papal document in recent years. Catholics around the world were divided over whether to accept it while opinion outside the church has been overwhelmingly critical.

"The knowledge of our grave responsibility cost us no small suffering," he said. "We well knew of the heated discussion in the press. The anguish of those involved in the problem touched us also . . .

"How many times did we hesitate before the dilemma of an easy agreement with current opinion, or of a bad decision supported by today's society, or one that would be arbitrarily too difficult for conjugal life."

Obligation To Pronounce

But in the end, he said, "We had no doubt of our obligation to pronounce our sentence in the terms expressed in the present encyclical."

The Pope said he hoped Christian couples would understand his words, "severe and arduous" though they may seem, because his intention was to be "the interpreter of the authenticity of their love."

He said the question of birth control is one "whose importance is capital for human existence and the future of the world," and that he had never before felt his responsibility weigh so heavily as in reaching his decision.

"A sentiment of hope has accompanied the laborious writing of this document," the Pope said. "The hope that is, almost on its strength, for its human truth, will be well accepted, notwithstanding the difficulty that the way traced out can present to those who want faithfully to follow it . . ."

North Viets Reject Rusk's Proposal

Paris (AP) — North Vietnamese delegates attacked Secretary of State Dean Rusk Wednesday for asking them to say what North Vietnam would do if the United States stopped bombing it.

Ambassador Ha Van Lau substituted for ailing Minister Xuan Thuy in the stalemated Paris peace talks.

"Once again," Lau said, "we completely reject the extremely absurd U.S. demand for 'reciprocity' and resolutely oppose the warlike and aggressive stand of Mr. Dean Rusk, who is going against the aspirations for peace of the American people and the peoples of the world."

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman countered with a plea to the North Vietnamese to leave Laos alone. Laos is the little country that lies on the western border of North Vietnam. The main land supply line of the North Vietnamese to their troops in the south — the Ho Chi Minh Trail — runs through eastern Laotian territory.

Lau Challenged

Harriman challenged Lau to go with him to Laos and talk with refugees and captured North Vietnamese soldiers, in order to see whether North Vietnam is violating Laotian territory.

There was no indication of progress toward stopping the war.

"There is nothing new I can report today," Harriman told reporters as he left the conference center after the 15th session of the talks.

The U.S. delegation released a statement by Harriman asserting that North Vietnamese troops now constitute more than 70% of the enemy main force military units in South Vietnam, as compared with 25% in 1965.

North Vietnam, Harriman, said, has the equivalent of eight divisions either in or threatening South Vietnam's northern provinces. In the central region of the south, he said, the equivalent of three North Vietnamese divisions base themselves on supply depots in Laos.

Four Divisions

In the Saigon area the equivalent of four divisions "composed mainly of North Vietnamese army troops ring the capital," having had their ranks increased by thousands of infiltrators in recent months, he said.

According to a North Vietnamese spokesman, Nguyen Than Le, his group continued denouncing Rusk in the coffee break, which took up 35 minutes of a session that lasted more than four hours.

Florida Tornado Kills 2 Omahans

. . . Their Trailer House Destroyed

North Port Charlotte, Fla. (AP) — A vacationing man and wife from Omaha were killed Tuesday night when a tornado ripped through a retirement trailer park.

They were Elton T. Darden Jr., 64, and his 67-year-old wife, Anna J. Sources in Omaha said they had been in Florida about two weeks and had planned to stay there two more weeks.

Officials at North Port Charlotte said the Dardens' 60-foot mobile home was picked up by the twister and carried 150 feet before it was slammed into a second trailer.

Their bodies were found in the debris by neighbors. In all, 10 trailers were damaged but no other injuries were reported.

The trailer community is just north of here on Florida's Gulf Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Darden are survived by two sons, Rodney of Omaha and Elton III of Millard, and two daughters, Mrs. Bernard Akromis of Omaha and Miss Patricia Darden of San Francisco.

Stromsburg Farmstead In Shambles

The Earl Johnson farmstead near Stromsburg was virtually destroyed Tuesday night when a tornado touched down, injuring Johnson and his wife, Sylvia. Two youths are shown surveying the wreckage Wednesday. All buildings on the farm, including a two-story home, were leveled. The Johnsons sought refuge in the basement.

Werve's OPPD Resignation Is Effective Aug. 15

Omaha (AP) — Marvin Werve's resignation from the Board of Directors of the Omaha Public Power District will be effective Aug. 15.

Werve is a senior vice president of the Omaha National Bank. Since repeal of the Nebraska intangible tax, OPPD is moving its pension funds back to the state from New York, so Werve is stepping down from the board to avoid any conflict of interest.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann will appoint a successor to Werve on the OPPD board, to which he was appointed in 1966 by former Gov. Frank Morrison.

Colonel Henke Ending Service

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Lt. Col. Robert Henke, 43, was retired in a ceremony Wednesday at Fort Des Moines after nearly 26 years' service in the Army.

Colonel Henke, a regular Army officer, has served as reserve adviser in Iowa and been at Fort Des Moines since 1964.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henke of Kearney, Neb., he joined the Army after finishing high school and served in the Pacific in World War II. He had four tours of duty in Korea and received a battlefield commission as a major there in 1952.

He was promoted to lieutenant colonel in July, 1966.

6 Seek McCook Postmastership

Washington (AP) — The Civil Service Commission said Wednesday six persons have filed applications to be postmaster at McCook, Neb.

Those filing were identified as Mrs. Darleen L. Brooks, Edward E. Erdman, Francis L. Hassler, Carl J. Huff, Miss Ceceilia M. Pate and Harold F. Russell.

Champion Would Sell 3 Nebraska Holdings Under Proposed Judgment

Omaha (AP) — Champion Papers, Inc., of Hamilton, Ohio, would sell holdings in 23 cities, including three in Nebraska, under a proposed consent judgment filed in Federal District Court here.

The agreement would conclude an antitrust suit filed against Champion in April of 1965. The company was charged with violating the Clayton Act by acquiring two paper distributors including Carpenter Paper Co., of Omaha.

Champion has merged with U.S. Plywood Corporation to form a $1 billion forest products firm.

The agreement to sell covers Nationwide Papers of Omaha and merchandising houses at Grand Island and Lincoln.

Under the terms, the parent firm has two years after the final judgment of the suit to divert itself of the 23 business holdings.

State Bee Colony Count Unchanged

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics Wednesday said there were 103,000 bee colonies in Nebraska as of July 1, unchanged from a year earlier.

The condition of the colonies was 80%, up three points from last year.

The condition of nectar plants at 75% was down three points and reflects severely dry weather, the division said.

Platte Valley, CPPD Merger Plan Explained

North Platte (AP) — A merger of Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District and Consumers Public Power district, to be completed by 1970, will provide the kind of agency both the Legislature and Platte customers have insisted on through the years, Homer Loutzenheiser, Platte general manager, said Wednesday.

At a Rotary Club meeting, Loutzenheiser emphasized that the agreement to merge entered into between Platte and Consumers July 5 is not an agreement to ultimately agree, but rather "an agreement binding both districts to fulfill the terms stated in the merger document at the earliest possible date."

He said the merger would require several procedural steps.

First and most important, Loutzenheiser said, is the securing of necessary funds to build additional generating capacity for outstate Nebraska and funds to refinance portions of all of existing Platte, Loup, Consumers and Nebraska Public Power System indebtedness. The financing program now is being undertaken by Consumers, he said.

14 Directors

The Platte and Consumers districts will merge into a new agency to be known as the Nebraska Public Power District, he said.

"At this time, two Platte District directors will retire and the remaining seven directors, plus the seven Consumers directors, will constitute the initial Board of Directors of the new district, each serving out his elected term of office. As the directors' terms expire, the board will ultimately reduce to 11 directors elected from throughout the state," he said.

IN PERSPECTIVE

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by feature writer Irene C. Kuhn.)

NEW YORK — In making his firm and unequivocal statement that he will not accept the Democratic nomination this year for the vice presidency, Senator Edward M. Kennedy has blasted the big hopes of little men who had expected to ride to glory on his name.

He has done more. He has struck down the myth-makers. They have been sprouting like fungi since the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy two months ago, although not so profusely as after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In his farewell to his brother in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral on that June Saturday of black sorrow and despair, Teddy, the youngest and last one of the four Kennedy sons, asserted his own manhood. At the same time, he reiterated his distaste for the mythologizing of his brother. Now, in his quiet, dignified statement of renunciatiin, he made it plain he is not willing to allow his tragic position to be exploited for political gain.

It would be a stupid man, indeed, who had failed to notice the instant gravitation of so many of President Kennedy's personal followers and political clique to Robert F. Kennedy's side after the first assassination, in their eagerness to attach themselves to him.

And Teddy Kennedy is not stupid.

In fact, he may be the "best politician in the family, with the good looks and easy manner for political success." This was President Kennedy's description of his kid brother when Teddy was sworn in as a senator just eleven months after he had attained the legal age for election to the office.

Since then, even his critics have been impressed with his willingness to work hard at his job. He had grown up in the shadow of his gifted elder brothers, saw two of them move up rapidly in politics. When his turn came, many thought he was callow, shallow and too young.

Despite doubts, Teddy went ahead and won the Senate seat from Massachusetts. He has since proved himself a real worker, a man who likes the Senate — neither JFK nor Bobby did — and he is popular with his colleagues and his constituency.

He has good taste as well and he could not join or encourage the myth-makers. He had seen the vulgarization of the memory of his brother, Jack. From the shock of that tragedy four years ago, the commercial vultures had hacked out profits beyond their wildest dreams. They worked night and day to build a myth around a man who, above all else, hated that kind of thing.

The greedy merchants and promoters were bad enough. The President's own circle of political associates worked to keep the myth alive. They transferred their loyalties quickly to Bobby. Then Bobby was shot at the peak political success in the presidential primaries.

Teddy Kennedy saw the myth-makers starting to canonize the assassinated presidential aspirant, as they had the murdered President. He spoke out in the cathedral at his brother's funeral services, against making a myth of Bobby, for he knew his brothers were men, not supermen.

His controlled but profound grief has not blinded him to the fact that myths that are permitted to gather and grow will obscure the fact that his brothers, for all their special graces and gifts, their magic, magnetic qualities, were human beings. And, like the rest of us, the Kennedys made mistakes. They would not have been human if they had not.

And they would not have appealed to so many Americans and strength in both men. The myth is never as good who equated their own faults and virtues with the weaknesses as the man.

Realistic Look At Taxes

The loud protestations of Loren Morris, who led an apparently unsuccessful petition drive to scuttle the state income tax, have the taste of sour grapes. Mr. Morris has suggested that leading state officials conspired to deny the people their rights of petition. Those are strong and bitter words — and if Mr. Morris really believes that, he ought to take his allegations to court.

A lawsuit is already pending in Lancaster District Court to challenge the deadline date for acceptance of petitions. If Mr. Morris wishes to add charges of official collusion to that litigation, he should do so. But to suggest publicly, without any supporting evidence, that leading state officials have denied the people's constitutional right of petition is highly improper.

Mr. Morris may yet win his case in court, permitting the income tax issue to go before the electorate in November. But, he should be reminded that there would be no question at all about that prospect today if most Nebraskans had supported his petition efforts.

If tens of thousands had provided signatures, the final count of valid signatures would have been well over the required goal, and the matter of two extra days for filing would not have been crucial.

The fact is that Nebraskans did not flood Mr. Morris with signatures. Only in Omaha did substantial numbers sign up. Nebraskans may not be happy with the new tax bills which they face but, to their credit, most of them apparently are unwilling to replace this basically fair tax system with one designed to spare the rich and sock it to the little guy. That's what constitutional prohibition of an income tax would do.

Siesta On The Way Out

Word has reached the United States that one of the world's most treasured and charming customs, the siesta, is disappearing in its native country, Spain.

Sad.

For centuries Spaniards have been taking a three-hour lunch break, to be able to devote ample time to lunch — the one big meal of the day — and to a refreshing snooze afterward.

Now Spain is industrializing, modernizing and Westernizing. And the siesta is a casualty of this "progress."

Spain is tightening its economic belt and the siesta, already reduced to little more than a cat nap, is disappearing rapidly. Civil servants have been told to cut their three-hour lunch break to two hours. With increasing urbanization in Spain, there is another Western phenomenon: rush hour. Thus our poor Spaniard worker is barely able to get home, eat and get back to work. There's no chance for a nap.

Since hustle has been introduced in Spain, some entreprenuers have taken advantage of it by introducing cafeterias so the worker doesn't even have to go home at noon. He simply grabs a bite and dashes back to the office.

This is the road to ulcers.

We're not opposed to progress, but when it eliminates the noon-time nap, it can't be all good. What we'd really like to see is the introduction of the siesta in the U.S. A little nap after lunch might do wonders for production.

BOB CONSIDINE

Dr. Charles William Mayo

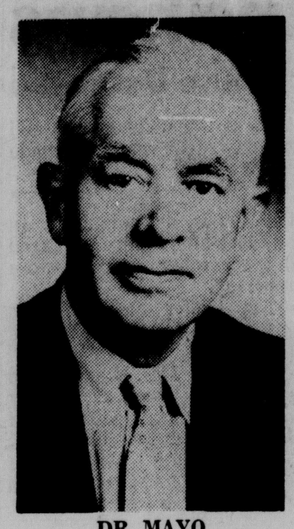

NEW YORK — Chuck Mayo, who was killed in his car on his 70th birthday last Sunday, was one of those Unforgettable Characters. He had to be believed, and even then it was sometimes hard.

He was one of the most distinguished surgeons in the world. His writings, particularly on abdominal surgery, are in every medical library on earth. His honors ranged from being chosen to ride a bejeweled elephant, while garbed in silk hat and tails, at the coronation of King Mahendra Bir Bikram Shad Deva of Nepal, to being selected to express America's outrage over brainwashing of U.S. prisoners of the Korean war.

But just about everybody from the youngest intern to the president of the American Medical Association called him "Chucko." He was Charles William Mayo, named for his father and his uncle, the internationally famed Mayo Brothers. They were to medicine what the Wright Brothers were to aviation. They made their incredible clinic in Rochester, Minn. a bright beacon in the darkness of man's hunger for health. Chuck gave the beacon fresh brilliance.

He had a wonderful concept of the doctor's role in life. "I try to imagine the kind of doctor I'd like, if I were you," he would tell a patient. "Then I try to be that kind of doctor." He was seriously ill from rheumatic fever while studying medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Chuck always regarded that period — he missed a full year of study — as a good experience.

"I think every doctor ought to be sick early in his career," he once said. "I'd like to see every young doctor feel pain."

Chuck had an endless sense of humor about life and its foibles. His fund of stories was inexhaustible. I don't think I ever heard him repeat a story from the day I met him through the many years after that until his accidental death.

His beautiful wife, Alyse, who died last year, was the perfect mate for Chuck Mayo. She, too, was a world of fun and laughter, and sometimes the victim of her husband's blythe spirit. During one of her pregnancies she announced triumphantly to Chuck that she would present him with twins. Dr. Mayo said patiently that examinations had indicated that she was carrying only one child. Alyse replied somewhat icily that if anybody knew she was going to have twins, she certainly was the authority involved. She dared Chuck to take an x-ray.

"That'll show you I'm right," she said.

Chuck dutifully took the x-ray, which showed only one child, as he had predicted. But it wasn't enough for him simply to hand her the evidence. He had a friend of his in the x-ray laboratory embellish it a bit. When he delivered it to Alyse, it showed the baby thumbing its nose.

But there was no laughter in Chuck Mayo when there was work to do. Memorably one day in the United Nations, where he was an alternate delegate, a flood of "confessions" had been coming from American prisoners of North Korea to the effect that U.S. forces had resorted to bacteriological warfare.

With the sting of outrage in his voice, the usually happy-go-lucky doctor rose and said, among other things:

"The total picture pesented is one of human beings reduced to a status lower than that of animals; filthy, full of lice, festered wounds full of maggots; their sickness regulated to a point just short of death; unshaven without haircuts or baths for as much as a year; men in rags, exposed to the elements; fed with carefully measured minimum quantitites and lowest quality of food and unsanitary water, served often in rusty cans; isolated, faced with squads of trained interrogators, bullied incessantly, deprived of sleep and browbeaten into mental anguish.

"We must remember," he said, looking around the room, "that all this was not done as mere senseless brutality; it was done for one single purpose: to make free men serve communist ambitions."

Chuck would have made a great politician. In fact, President Eisenhower asked him to run against Sen. Hubert Humphrey in 1954. Chuck dropped him on note. "I am a doctor, not a politician," it read. It was an understatement. Chuck was a great doctor, and an unforgettable friend.

Trucking Lobby Woos Congressmen

WASHINGTON — The American public can thank Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register for another illustration of unethical conduct by Congress in publishing a detailed report on the manner in which the trucking lobby subsidized certain key congressmen. In return, highly favorable trucking legislation has just been passed or recommended by Congress.

Earlier this year, Jack Anderson and I wrote a book, "The Case Against Congress," which probed into some of the unethical conduct of congressmen. When the book's galley proofs were circulated in advance to members of the Senate Ethics Committee, the effect was stimulating.

Suddenly, after weeks of procrastination, the ethics committee threw off its lethargy and recommended a code of ethical standards. This was promptly passed. The House of Representatives also acted.

Despite this, ethics in both houses of Congress continue about the same, as illustrated by the scandalous manner in which Congress has recently bowed to the trucking lobby, the highway lobby, the meat lobby and the gas pipeline lobby.

Nick Kotz and the Des Moines Register have exposed the trucking lobby in regard to a bill limiting the amount of commercial freight hauled by farm cooperatives, now signed into law; also in regard to a bill doubling the size of triple trailer trucks on interstate highways from 73,280 pounds to 138,000 pounds. They have revealed that a total of $40,000 was contributed to the campaign kitties of key congressmen to oil the legislative wheels for these two bills.

Equally important, possibly more so, is the federal highway bill which has been in a two-week hassle between the House and Senate committees, with Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., refusing to sign the report because it was stacked in favor of the trucking, cement and freeway lobbies.

As written in the House, the bill limited Lady Bird's beautification program, undermined the protection of parks, historical sites, game refuges, etc., and cracked down completely on the right of the courts and local planning commissions to hold up freeways which they didn't want.

Significantly, the House of Representatives bowed to the highway lobby much more than did the Senate. And it was in the House that the truckers dumped most of their money.

Rep. George Fallon of Baltimore, Democratic chairman of the Public Works Committee which handled the highway bill, got $1,000 from the Truck Operators Nonpartisan Committee. Rep. Sam Friedel, another Baltimore Democrat and a key member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, got $1,000 in 1966, $750 in 1968 and $250 in May 1968. Rep. John Kluczynski, Chicago Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee which voted out the highway bill, got $30,000 from the same truckers' committee.

The following members of the important Public Works Committee got $1,000 each from the truckers' committee: John Blatnik, D-Minn., and William Harsha, R-Ohio. The following got $500 each: Robert E. Jones, Ala.; James Wright, Texas; Kenneth Gray, Ill.; Frank Clark, Pa.; Harold Johnson, Calif.; W. J. B. Dorn, S.C.; Arnold Olsen, Mont.; Ray Roberts, Texas; James Kee, W.Va.; all Democrats; with Republicans James Grover, N.Y.; Roger Zion, Ind.; Charlotte Reid, Ill.

These are the contributions to members of the House Public Works Committee only and do not include money given to key members of other committees or to senators.

Progress Comes To The Caribbean

ST. CROIX, V.I. — There are times, lately, when I've pondered the possibility that there may be air pollution in Heaven.

Such an irreverent thought never occurs in New York City or Chicago or Los Angeles, where millions of cars, industries and people fog the air and the waters with a potpourri of impurities. Big cities have been fouled for generations by the complexities of progress, and their populations expect these problems even as they detest them.

But here in the Virgin Islands, which visitors and native-born alike have looked upon as paradise on earth, pollution comes as a shattering and disenchanging surprise. Small green islands jutting up from the glistening blue Caribbean Sea, whose people depend for life upon tourists escaping the tawdrier aspects of their home cities on the U.S. mainland, the Virgins appeared as Elysian Fields destined to remain — if not altogether tranquil — at least pure of pollution.

And then, this year, we jetted down to find many miles of the coastline of St. Croix awash with dark brown water, and the air along that coast wafting unpleasant odors.

What was it? A handful of new industries have moved into the island the last few years, and nobody who lives here year-round seemed to know which one was responsible for releasing the mahogany-colored stuff into the blue-green sea. In fact, nobody seemed much alarmed; when they went to swim or gaze at the water, and saw that these beaches were brown, they simply turned around and went to another beach on the other side of the island.

Aerial photographs finally revealed the culprit — a Cruzan rum factory which, since it was taken over by a giant U.S. distiller, now runs its molasses sludge through a pipe and dumps it at sea. In the old, unprogressive days, this waste was leeched out into the soil — but that system drew flies. The "modern way" is to let the sea absorb it because, after all, when you're surrounded by sea, you take it for granted.

The sea, to the people who live with it, is rather like a child in the family: when she's with you constantly, you don't notice the changes taking place in her.

St. Croix rum is about the best-tasting in the world, but it is unpleasant to swim in. The fishermen say the fish are now either so blind — or intoxicated — they can't find the bait.

Progress has begun to come to, and to pollute, paradise.

From where I sit and write, the water is no longer blue — but I am.

Results Of Chicago Convention Uncertain As The Tides Of Politics Shift And Swirl

WASHINGTON — Vice President Humphrey's campaign managers boasted Monday that their man had won about 110 more delegates in Virginia, Kentucky and Utah. This news will not, however, receive the public attention that Humphrey attracted over the weekend when he was driven from the platform in Los Angeles by the booing of black militants.

It is a shame for opposition to Humphrey to be expressed in that manner, whether those preventing freedom of speech are blacks, McCarthy supporters, or anybody else. But the fact remains that the vice president has yet to demonstrate that he has much public enthusiasm to underpin all those delegates he is accumulating.

His campaign has been neither lively nor dramatic, he has not spoken nor had issued in his name any memorable words (except the unfortunate "Politics of Joy" reference), and although he has marshalled up obedient droves of luminaries to endorse him, his political position is still so precarious that some of his staff men worry out loud that a word from President Johnson could destroy it; and the one message most of them really wanted was that Edward M. Kennedy would shore up a Humphrey ticket as his running mate.

The basic Humphrey strategy is defensive. It counts on the nomination of Richard M. Nixon by the Republicans, a move the Humphrey men think will bring dissident Democrats back to the Humphrey fold, and on the third-party candidacy of George Wallace, which they believe will drain off votes from Nixon's conservative and Southern support.

Humphrey's managers are not inflating (at least not by more than a respectable percentage) his delegate strength; obviously, the Democrats want to nominate the vice president. But just as obviously, there is a real question whether he can win in November, or even hold the Democratic party together, and as long as that is true, the Chicago convention cannot be regarded as "sewed up."

Suppose, for instance, that the Republicans go through some kind of convulsion at Miami Beach next week and nominate Nelson Rockefeller — a candidate who would cut into Humphrey's strength among Negroes and other minority groups in the big industrial states with their blocs of electoral votes.

The Gallup Poll prematurely released in the Miami Herald downgrades that prospect; it showed Nixon running better against either Humphrey or McCarthy than Rockefeller, a sharp blow to the New Yorker's hopes.

In other respects, the Republican convention also has begun to look like something less than an open-and-shut case. Not only has Rockefeller won some important party backing and picked up a few delegates to go with it, but the major favorite sons — Rhodes of Ohio, Romney of Michigan and Agnew of Maryland — appear to be holding.

More important, perhaps, the unadmitted drive of Governor Reagan is believed to be picking up steam, particularly in the South, and the victim of this is bound to be Nixon. Therefore — at least until the Gallup Poll publication—there appeared to be a rising possibility that Nixon could be denied a first or second-ballot nomination.

Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida was predicting during a Washington visit that it would therefore be a "Stop Reagan" convention—one in which much of Nixon's strength would quickly shift to the Californian, with the final showdown coming between Rockefeller and Reagan. And House minority leader Gerry Ford predicted there might be as many as five or six ballots.

All of this, the conventional wisdom holds, is whistling in the dark; Nixon and Humphrey have the nominations in the bag, and the conventions are being held only for the benefit of the merchants in Miami Beach and Chicago, and of the several dozen vice presidential candidates on both sides.

But is has not been a good year for conventional wisdom, conventional politics, conventional candidates, or conventional journalism. It would be remarkable, indeed, if all the 1968's indications of public yearning for new directions and new voices resulted only in routine conventions and first-ballot nominations.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Couples Who Anxiously Await Children's Departure In Minority

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "We're in our late 40's with two children married and two still home. You'll be shocked, but my husband and I can't wait for these last two to grow up and depart. There's a lot of sentimental mush about children being a joy, but ours have taken so much time and given us so many problems that we advise young couples to forget about babies. The nation is already overpopulated, and children prevent you from traveling and living your own life. They're also frightfully expensive. Does this make us real odd balls?"

A. — Well, it puts you in the minority. Parenthood enjoys such revered status that it's almost subversive to question its joys. Over the years this column has heard from a number of couples — particularly those caught up in personal careers — who feel life can be lived more fully and richly without the encumberances of children. The world created by the Good Lord would have been much more perfect had procreative ability been granted only those who genuinely wanted children and could afford the time and money to raise them properly.

Q. — "What is considered the first sign of senility?"

A. — Some psychologists say it's when a person starts to reminisce a great deal. The causes of senility are not fully known. It may stem from organic changes, or it may stem from inactivity and loss of interest in living. The best way to delay its onset is to maintain good physical health by eating properly, getting adequate exercise, and thinking about the present and future rather than dwelling in the past.

Q. — "I can't stand being around old people. I'm 65 myself so when I'm invited to parties and gatherings the hostess always puts me next to old-timers, when I'd much rather mingle with youth, What can I do?"

A. — Stop thinking other elders are necessarily dull. Many old folks today are colorful and bright, and have lots to talk about. It's perfectly normal to group people according to age, on the assumption that folks in the same generation have more in common. Personally, I prefer talking with lively elders. Trying to converse with most youngsters bores me to death.

Lee Resigns Job As State Director Of Foster Care

The State Welfare Department Wednesday announced the resignation of Larry Lee, director of the Foster Care Unit of the Division of Children and Family Services.

He has resigned to become director of professional services with the Family and Child Service in Springfield, Ill.

Welfare Director Harold W. Rogers said Lee's resignation was due primarily because of better salaries paid to social workers in Illinois.

LBJ Says Build-Up Prohibits Restraint

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson cautioned Wednesday that a new massive Communist offensive against South Vietnam cities appears imminent and said he has no immediate intention of reducing U.S. bombing of the North.

Citing intelligence data of North Vietnam infiltration and supply, Johnson told a news conference: "I cannot ignore this evidence. I cannot order the further unilateral reduction of bombing. I am prepared to halt the bombing when we feel confident the halt will not lead to heavy U.S. casualties."

The President also evidenced no optimism that the talks with North Vietnam representatives in Paris are showing any signs of progress.

He declared there was evidence that the Vietnamese Communists had been re-equipping and retraining for some time in order to launch a new massive attack, particularly directed against some of the major cities in the South.

Hoped For Restraint

The President said he had hoped his March 31 proposal that led to the Paris talks would have been met by similar restraint by the North Vietnamese but that since it had not been he could not order further halt in the U.S. bombing.

Johnson expressed hope that the "enemy offensive which seems imminent can be avoided."

The President added that "if a major enemy offensive does occur, our commanders believe that we are in a position to deal with it and they will be prepared to do so."

He said there was "always the chance that we will have to act promptly on additional military measures if the enemy puts our men in danger."

'NLF: Communist'

Asked how he felt about the National Liberation Front (NLF) and its possible participation in any eventual settlement in Vietnam, Johnson replied: "We have covered that time and time again. The NLF in our judgment is a pure Communist front. We have said repeatedly that Hanoi would have no difficulty in making their position known."

This appeared in direct policy conflict with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey who declared earlier in the day he would welcome free elections in South Vietnam with no factions barred.

Johnson then said that statements by Secretary of State Rusk Wednesday demanding some sort of "authoritative" assurance of de-escalation action by North Vietnam before he would consider a complete halt in bombing represented no changes in U.S. policy.

Johnson voiced little optimism for any break in the stalemated Paris negotiations with North Vietnam representatives. He said that he "continues to hope for the best" in the talks and was prepared to give North Vietnam added time to consider the situation.

Hershey Says Wallace His Choice In '68

Cheyenne, Wyo. (UPI) — Selective Service director, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, said Wednesday in Cheyenne he believed former Alabama Gov. George Wallace would make a good president.

Hershey made the remark in a press conference at Cheyenne during a one-day visit to talk with local draft board officials. Hershey, 74, has headed the Selective Service for three wars.

He said he preferred Wallace because he would be the easiest to work with.

"You wouldn't believe who would be the best candidate for my office to work with but it would be George Wallace," he said.

"I don't follow politics much, but he (Wallace) would make a good president. I believe Wallace wouldn't be bad to work with because he has been a governor . . . and he knows about Selective Service.

"I wouldn't want to say anything about the other major candidates because I don't follow politics closely, but I was flattered when one of the candidates said he would fire both (FBI head) J. Edgar Hoover and myself," Hershey said in reference to Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota.

Council, Mayor To Visit Central 'Phone, Utilities

The Lincoln City Council and Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf have scheduled their Friday visit in a series of calls on local industrial and business firms to Central Telephone and Utilities Corp. (formerly Western Piwer and Gas Co.)

The tour, the 25th for counsil members and the mayor, will follow a format similar to previous ones in which the industry is viewed and discussions are held about problems, future plans and possible need of assistance.

Schwartzkopf started the tour program after he took office last year as a part of his effort to attract industry to the city. A certain amount of effort must be directed toward keeping industry already here happy and healthy, according to the mayor.

Justine Simpson Found Innocent Of Manslaughter

Omaha (AP) — A District Court jury found 41-year-old Justine Simpson innocent of a manslaughter charge in connection with the death Feb. 18 of Edward Dorsey, 43.

Dorsey as stabbed as he walked out of a delivery service office. Judge John C. Burke presided at the trial.

District Judge Sentences 2 To Jail Terms

Federal District Court Judge Robert Van Pelt Wednesday sentenced two men to prison terms for interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles.

Jerry Dean Murphy, who pleaded guilty in federal court here to a charge of transporting a stolen vehicle from Wichita, Kan., to Wood River, between Dec. 18-23, 1967, was sentenced to the custody of the attorney general for an undetermined length of time.

Murphy, adjudged to be a youth offender, was sentenced under the federal law allowing the correctional institution to determine the length of time for imprisonment.

John Pendelton Martin III, who pleaded guilty to a charge of transporting a stolen vehicle from Houston, Tex., to Greeley sometime between April 11 and June 10, 1968, was sentenced to a prison term of five years.

Request For Hike In Police Force, Pay Is Endorsed

The Lincoln Police Department's requests for an increase of 32 policemen on the force and salary raises was supported by the Lincoln Action Program in a letter sent to Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Wednesday.

LAP Deputy Director John Calloway wrote that "we heartedly support" the Police Department requests made during a budget hearing before the City Council.

In his letter speaking for the agency, Calloway said "since it is the Lincoln Police Department which is generally the first city agency to come in contact with many of the people whom we serve, we feel that we have some obligation to support our police chief in his attempt to upgrade his department."

Music, Ghetto Native Says, Was His Ticket Out

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

Music, so they say, soothes the heart within the savage breast.

Nate Strong would agree with that. But for him, music has become much more — not only a way of life but life itself.

"Without music," he admits, "I'd either be dead or a drunk."

Until he was 19, Strong lived within a Chicago ghetto — "never locked up, but rebellious and stubborn and obsessed with going my own way."

The Jungle'

"The Jungle" — the way he remembers Chicago — flickers inside his eyes as he talks about it.

"The town's a jungle. It's no place for a kid to live. It's not conducive to anything but big business," Strong says.

"We were so poor that the rats went next door to eat," he says, laughing. But it's not entirely a joke.

Air Force

His "escape" wore Air Force blues. And during a tour of duty in Alaska, music and Nate Strong were formally introduced.

STAR PHOTO

NATE STRONG . . . piano changed his life.

It was love at first meeting.

He began to attend jam sessions at the Alaskan base, and another servcieman "who heard me fooling around one day" recognized talent and began to teach Strong the piano.

Play Everything

That was 15 years ago. Now, as a member of the Duke Groner Trio, Strong and his companions "play everything from Alley Cat to Rachmaninoff."

It wasn't that easy, of course. Strong admits that it took most of those 15 years to move from jam session beginner to competent musician.

He didn't stop there. Several University of Nebraska music instructors who heard the pianist play recently rank him quite a bit above "competent."

Strong doesn't really consider himself exceptional, however, although he realizes that he has been "one of a precious few" who escaped the ghetto where he grew up.

Lack Incentive

And, perhaps surprisingly, he feels that entrapment in the ghetto sometimes arises from a lack of desire to escape it.

But the ghetto is still there, and although Strong says "things are moving too fast for me," he sees a movement today — "a social revolution" — heading toward a better world.

Black people in the ghettoes are struggling for their own businesses and stores and the means to control their own lives, he notes.

'Getting Together'

"And young people today are getting together and finding out for themselves. Young blacks and whites are basing their relationships on individaul respect and human dignity," he said.

"I've never considered music 'work,' " he said. "I'm making a buck, but it's what I want to do and it's taken me places I never thought I'd go.

"I'd say music changed me, my life — even my outlook on other people."

Bank Clearings Said Up Over '67

Lincoln's three downtown banks reported Wednesday that bank clearings for July 1968 totaled $80,559,419.

This compares with $67,332,817 for the same month in 1967.

The total for this year, January through July, is now $527,828,575.

Survey: Humphrey Holds Demo Lead

By LOUIS HARRIS

LOUIS HARRIS

Democrats In Dilemma

The Democratic Party finds itself in a deep dilemma as it approaches its August convention. On the one hand, among a cross section of Democrats only, Vice President Hubert Humphrey keeps his position as the preferred choice for the nomination over Sen. Eugene McCarthy by 46% to 40%.

On the other hand, among the electorate as a whole, McCarthy at this point in time would run a stronger race than Humphrey against the Republican candidate by six to nine percentage points. And if McCarthy were denied the nomination and ran on a fourth-party ticket, the latest Harris Survey finds that he might siphon off enough votes to hand Richard Nixon the election.

To be sure, McCarthy continues to narrow Humphrey's lead among Democrats — from 15 points in early May to six points in mid-July. And among independents, McCarthy is ahead of Humphrey 48 to 32%.

Contrary to Claims

And contrary to the claims of McCarthy supporters that the general public is outraged by the convention selection procedures for delegates, Democrats across the country answered in the affirmative by a three to two margin when asked: "Do you feel that the delegates who will represent this state at the Democratic Party convention in August are representative of the thinking of the voters of this state or not?"

Many have predicted that the Humphrey-McCarthy dilemma may cause the Democratic Party to fall apart at the seams after the national convention. But a careful observation of current campaign activity indicates that McCarthy has been trying to prove that he is a good and loyal Democrat. By the same token, Hubert Humphrey shows real signs of trying to woo support outside the ranks of the professionals and head off the threat of a fourth-party bolt.

Here would be the results today of a four-way presidential contest in which Eugene McCarthy and George Wallace headed up their own nationwide, independent parties:

FOUR-WAY PRESIDENTIAL TEST

	Total Voters
Nixon	32%
Humphrey	27%
McCarthy	21%
Wallace	15%
Not sure	5%

In the same way that Wallace has been a "spoiler" among possible Nixon votes in the South, McCarthy would take votes away from Humphrey in Northern states. McCarthy leads all three of his opponents in the West, dominated by California's big electoral bloc. Wallace runs first in the South and could conceivably take the lion's share of the electoral vote there in a four-way race. Nixon's five-point edge nationwide, however, might be enough to give him a majority of the electoral college vote or to carry in a substantial number of Republican congressmen eligible to vote if the election were thrown into the House of Representatives.

In a four-way contest, McCarthy would win more of the independent and under-35 vote than any of his other opponents. However, he would finish fourth and last in the South, among Republicans, in the small towns and rural areas, among voters 50 years of age and over, and among those with less than a high school education. He would draw nearly half his 21% from Humphrey, 3% from Nixon, 2% from Wallace, with the rest coming from currently undecided voters.

In the same poll in which McCarthy demonstrated that he could split the Democratic vote to give the election to Nixon, a cross secion of Democrats was also asked its presidential preference:

DEMOCRATIC RANK AND FILE CHOICE

	Humphrey	McCarthy	Not Sure
Mid-July	46%	40%	14%
Mid-June	48%	40%	12%
Late May	49%	37%	14%
Early May	47%	32%	21%
April	39%	35%	26%

There is no doubt that the threat of a fourth-party ticket might be something of a nightmare to Democratic Party leaders, although McCarthy has said he would not run personally on such a ticket.

In this case, the results might still prove disastrous to the Democratic Party with McCarthy on the fourth-party ticket. Without McCarthy, it is an entirely different ball game.

Even a McCarthy threat to bolt could be a two-way street. For the more the senator's partisan supporters say they will set up another party in the event he is not nominated, the more resentment such tactics are likely to build up in the minds of party leaders and delegates.

McCarthy Calls For Coalition

BEFORE VOTING IN SO. VIETNAM

New York (UPI) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy suggested Wednesday that a coalition government be negotiated in South Vietnam before plans are made for a free election.

The Democratic presidential hopeful said a recent call by his rival, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, for free elections in Vietnam were "not very realistic, not as a first step." He said Humphrey had "confused the issue."

"I just don't think they could hold one (an election) because of the experience we had a year and a half ago," McCarthy said. "That election didn't seem to change much."

Another Election

The elections 18 months ago were for delegates to the constituent assembly which drew up South Vietnam's constitution. McCarthy apparently meant to refer to the election last September of the president, vice president and legislative assembly.

The senator said that if free elections were what the Johnson-Humphrey administration wanted "this is what they should have been talking about in Paris."

McCarthy said after a coalition government including the Viet Cong is agreed upon, the stage could be set for elections open to all candidates, presumably including those from the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Viet Cong.

Support Gene

Humphrey gave his views on Vietnam at a news conference with a group of prominent clergymen who announced their support for the Minnesota senator. The Rev. John E. Boyles, executive secretary of the committee and pastor of the Church of Christ at Yale University, said McCarthy's New Hampshire campaign gave Americans their first chance to express, through political channels, their moral opposition to the war.

"Senator McCarthy, by his campaign, continues to give Americans the opportunity to make moral choices in their conduct of foreign policy," Boyles said. "If we are not strong enough to put our energies into electing Sen. McCarthy, we believe in all sobriety we may not again have the chance to make American values into reality."

McCarthy spent part of the day attending campaign receptions in suburban Westchester County and taping television spots.

ON TO WASHINGTON

Jefferson Spivey, 29, of Hollywood, Calif., stopped in Emporia, Kan., on a horseback trip to Washington, D.C. Spivey said he left Santa Barbara, Calif., April 26 and hopes to reach the capital Nov. 10.

Actor Recovers, Accuses Author Of Breaking Jaw

New York (AP) — An actor recovering from a broken jaw said Wednesday he was hit by author Norman Mailer and boxer Jose Torres "and a couple of other people," during the filming of a Mailer movie on Long Island last week.

The actor, Lane Smith, 31, said he expects to be released from Lenox Hill Hospital on Friday. He said his jaw was broken in two places and was wired together.

Smith declined to say what caused the incident.

Torres, former lightheavyweight champion, denied hitting Smith.

The fracas allegedly occurred in a house in East Hampton, where Mailer was filming scenes for a movie.

Mailer shot the film in five days, using a cast of nearly 100 friends and acquaintanaces, including a few actors.

Colleges Planned

Tokyo (UPI) — North Vietnam announced it will establish four new colleges this year, including two medical schools.

Threats Cause Strict Security For British Heir

London (AP) — Stricter security will be enforced for Prince Charles, 19, heir to the British throne, following threats to his life by Welsh extremists, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

One small group of extreme nationalists is believed by police ready to go to the limit — assassination — to prevent Charles' installation as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon Castle next July 1.

Other nationalist groups are known to be planning to disrupt the installation.

The threats follow a series of unsolved explosions at state buildings in Wales and at pipelines taking water from Welsh reservoirs to English cities.

Photogaphers' Week

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson signed legislation authorizing him to designate the week of Aug. 4-10 as "Professional Photographers Week."

Iraq President Names Himself Premier, Chief

Damascus, Syria (AP) — President Ahmed Hassan el Bakr of Iraq reached for more power Wednesday, naming himself premier to replace ousted Col. Abdul Razzak el Naef, Baghdad radio reported.

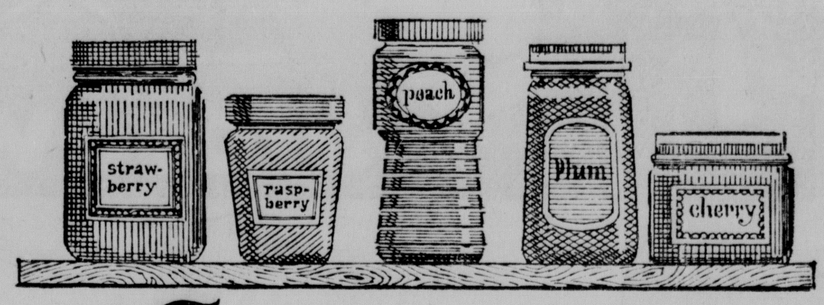

On Tuesday he had appointed himself chief of the armed forces after his Revolutionary Council announced the firing of Naef and Defense Minister Gen. Ibrahim Abdul Rahman al Daud. Both had been in office only 13 days.

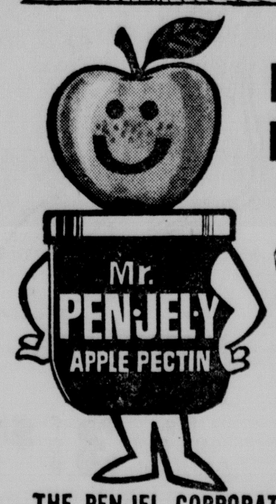

Baghdad radio reported that Bakr, a 52-year-old former army general, will combine the three jobs of president, premier and defense minister.

Other reports from Baghdad said Bakr has freed several prominent leftist politicians and labor leaders who were arrested by Naef after the July 17 coup that toppled President Abdul Rahman Aref.

4601 VINE STREET

Athens was 93 degrees. The tourists went out in the tour buses. They climbed the Acropolis. They gathered in groups while the guides explained the wonders of ancient Greece. In English and French. In German and Spanish and Swedish.

"The famous marbles were removed by Lord Elgin and are now in the British Museum in London . . ."

"Et maintenant, Monsieurs et Mesdames, regardez . . ."

It was hot as a Sheriff's pistol. The sun pure gold. The sea a watercolor marine blue.

The Americans listened carefully, probably wishing they were back in the air-conditioned hotel room. The English nodded when Lord Elgin was mentioned. The Germans looked as though they wished they had a cold beer. The French were cutting a tooth for the big lunch.

☆ ☆ ☆

The wren returned from the morning shopping tour and said: "Do you know you can buy a full-length mink coat here for only $500?"

I said: "For heaven's sake, who wants a mink coat on a day like this?"

She said: "I ran into this wonderful fur shop — now, wait, I know what you're going to say. But I REALLY went in because I thought you might want to write something about furs."

"My dear," I said, "it's touching. But I can't let you make these sacrifices for me. Forget the mink."

She said: "Well, I made a $10 deposit. Just to hold it. But I can get it back."

☆ ☆ ☆

At 5 o'clock she said: "Just drop by the fur shop with me. You should see the prices!"

"Are you going to get that ten bucks back?" I asked.

She said: "I didn't really put $10 on a mink coat. I just gave them the money to hold a mink stole. They said if I didn't they might sell it."

I said: "The people you can sell mink stoles to in this weather are all locked up. How much for the stole?"

"Only $275. They discounted it for me," she said.

☆ ☆ ☆

The store was hung with furs. The saleslady immediately brought out a drink — "something special they make in the islands."

It has the wallop of a dry martini. Five of them and you'd buy the store.

The saleslady said: "I have thought it over. Because you must know many people who come to Greece, I have reduced the price to $250!"

The wren: "I'll just try it on." She said to me: "What do you think?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The saleslady said: "You travel? Then I must talk to the manager." She talked to him — in Greek. She said: "What a wonderful thing! The manager wishes to reduce the price to $200!"

The saleslady said: "Also I wish to give you a mink hat! Free!"

She went to get it. I said: "Hey, get that ten back before this doll sinks me on that jungle juice from the islands."

☆ ☆ ☆

The lady came back with two hats. (I thought at first she had me seeing double.)

She said: "Also a hat for you! Free!"

She put it on my head. One of those fore-and-aft Persian lamb jobs that make you look like you're in the Iranian Army. She said: "We reduce the stole to $175!"

I made some polite "later maybe" noises. We got the $10. I staggered into the evening heat. The wren said: "Now I wonder what to buy with the $10." I said, "Hey, that's MY $10." She said: "How can you say that? I just saved it for you."

Patrol Gets 2 Belated Reports On Marijuana

State Patrol officials said Wednesday that two more incidents concerning marijuana harvesting in the Lincoln area have been brought to light.

Both of the incidents occurred before the huge harvesting operation north of Lincoln discovered Monday night.

In that operation, State Patrol troopers estimated that some 100 pounds of green marijuana had been carried away.

A hundred pounds of marijuana would be worth about $40,000 on the illicit market.

Troopers, tipped off by a farmer in the area, arrived too late to apprehend the harvesters — believed to be driving an out-of-state licensed car — but found about 12 pounds of picked and bagged marijuana left behind.

The two incidents reported Wednesday also involved out-of-state vehicles, State Patrol officials said.

Citizens reported the incidents after hearing of the Monday night operation.

State Patrol officials had warned Tuesday that such incidents may become more common in the future.

A trooper had noted that neighboring states have had trouble recently with out-of-staters coming in and harvesting marijuana.

City Buys More Land For Northeast Radial

Four more pieces of property were purchased by the city of Lincoln Wednesday for right-of-way for the Northeast Radial.

The purchases, authorized by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, brings to 44 the number of acquisitions for the proposed radial. Seventy-three parcels are still under negotiation.

Three lots were purchased from the National Manufacturing Co. at 1218 No. 22nd for $12,500. The sale agreement, according to the mayor's executive order, allows the former owners to use the garage on the property until the city starts construction and at that time, the owners have the right to remove the garage from the premises.

The south 54 feet of three lots at 2636 No. 33rd was purchased from Wayne A. McGregor for $6,500.

Two smaller pieces of property acquired by the city were on Potter between 21st and 22nd from Ralph R. Hleischmann for $2,000 and on the southeast corner of Merrill and 29th from W. H. Hemsath for $2,300.

New Polls Show Rockefeller Could Beat Other Candidates

© New York Times Service

Pocantico Hills, N.Y. — The Harris Poll will report on Friday that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller could defeat either of the Democratic presidential hopefuls and Richard M. Nixon could defeat neither, informed sources said Wednesday.

The sources said the latest Harris trial, completed about a week ago, showed Rockefeller running six points ahead of both Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

But Nixon, according to the sources, was running five points behind Humphrey and nine points behind McCarthy on the basis of a sample of about 1,600 persons.

The reported Harris results are diametrically opposed to those of a Gallup poll published last Monday. The Gallup findings were considered a blow to Rockefeller's presidential hopes, which had been based on the thesis that he was the most popular Republican.

At the same time, the results of another poll — a study by Archibald M. Crossley, financed by Rockefeller — were announced in Princeton, N.J. They also showed Rockefeller as a stronger candidate than Nixon.

Crossley polled 8,015 persons in the nine largest industrial states — Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California — and 1,976 persons in a nationwide survey.

The findings are somewhat inconclusive. The poll showed both Rockefeller and Nixon defeating Humphrey, with Rockefeller winning by a much wider margin. It also showed Rockefeller defeating McCarthy by 8 percentage points and Nixon even with the Minnesotan.

In the industrial states, with their large electoral votes, the poll indicated that Rockefeller would carry all nine against the vice president, while Nixon would carry five and lose four. In three of the five states in which he was ahead, Nixon led by less than 3 percentage points.

Outside of the South, Nixon led Humphrey but trailed McCarthy; Rockefeller was ahead of both.

In Manhattan Wednesday morning, Rockefeller said that he remained "conservatively optimistic" about his prospects of winning the Republican nomination for president.

Newspaper Says Nixon Plans Trip To Moscow Soon

London (AP) —The Evening Standard said Wednesday that Richard M. Nixon has made plans to visit Moscow before the November presidential elections.

The dispatch from the paper's Washington correspondent, Jeremy Campbell, said the Republican candidate for the presidency asked the Russians if they would agree to a visit and the Kremlin replied it would.

No date was mentioned and there was no attribution for the report. Nixon visited Moscow last year but Soviet officials refused to see him then.

At Least One Angry Bettor Keeps Ahead

Urawa, Japan (UPI) — The horses run somewhere every day, but officials at the Urawa race course could have done without it one recent night.

An angry crowd of 2,000 railbirds rioted when two favored horses failed to place. The losers smashed betting windows and wrecked office furniture before 850 riot police restored the peace. About 100 persons were injured and 18 arrested.

After the riot was quelled, the officials found that the day's entire take of $11,000 had disappeared from a safe.

Specialist Says Drinking Water Prevents Disease

Denver, Colo. (AP) — A glass of water is medicine to prevent and treat the fastest growing killer ailments — respiratory diseases -- in the United States today, Dr. P. Gregg Rhodes, a specialist in the field, said Wednesday.

"It sounds silly," he said, "but drinking a lot of water daily is fundamental in warding off and treating respiratory disease."

Rhodes, consultant to the chief of the U.S. Public Health Service chronic respiratory disease control program, was here to address a convention of the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital.

Charges Denied

New Delhi (UPI) —India's external affairs minister, Bali Ram Bhagat, denied that U.S. undersecretary of state Nicholas Katzenbach asked for details on Soviet Union arms supplies to India during Katzenbach's visit to India last week.

PRESIDENT SAYS RACE GULF STILL TOO WIDE

Washington (AP) — President Johnson said Wednesday Negroes are making progress in escaping poverty, but the nation needs to move faster in closing the gulf in a black and white economy.

"More than a century after the Emancipation Proclamation the average Negro family in America is earning only 59% as much as the average white family," the President said.

Johnson reported after a cabinet meeting that about one million non-whites rose above poverty levels last year, but he added, "The task of providing full opportunity still remains ahead of us."

The President emerged armed with graphs and reports that included one sharp change in recent trends — the increases in the number of Negroes moving to the inner cities have stopped the last two years.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics report said the urban core population of Negroes rose by 5.5 million from 1950 to 1966, but in the last two years "the increase stopped and there is some evidence to indicate an actual decline constituting a sharp change in recent trends."

Giant manta rays of the eastern tropical Pacific have a known wingspread of 22 feet; some reportedly grow even larger. Mantas move through water by flapping their large pectoral "wings."

Lowest Foreign Aid Authorization Wins Approval Of U.S. Senate

Washington (AP)— In a major rebuff to President Johnson, the Senate approved Wednesday a record low foreign aid bill more than $1 billion under what he asked.

After rejecting efforts to restore funds, the Senate passed an authorization measure of $1.94 billion for the current fiscal year and called for a reappraisal of the entire aid program.

The vote was 46 to 28.

The bill now goes to a conference to resolve differences with the House, which set a $1.99 billion figure.

Freezes Aid

In a surprise move, the Senate voted 37-36 to freeze some $122 million in unspent, carryover aid funds until the administration releases $91 million that Congress added to the program to aid federally impacted schools.

Shortly after this action, President Johnson told a news conference that he has decided not to spend the $91 million, which the administration had not sought.

The program aids school districts with a high enrollment of children of federal employes. Johnson criticized Congress for saying that $6 billion must be cut from the budget and then asking him to add more funds for the program.

Johnson had asked for $2.96 billion in foreign aid and called that budget an austere one.

The deep cuts, coupled with the plan for reappraisal, has led to speculation that the aid program launched 21 years ago may be nearing an end in its present form.

There have been frequent proposals in Congress to concentrate more on working through world organizations in helping underdeveloped countries and on bringing private industry more actively into a helping those countries improve their economies.

The aid bill as passed by the Senate proposes $1.58 billion for economic aid and $360 million for military assistance.

France Voices Sympathy For Biafra Over Nigeria

Paris (UPI) — France threw its support behind the breakaway Nigerian province of Biafra Wednesday and said it was "preoccupied and filled with emotion" over the bloodshed in the African state.

Although a government statement stopped short of formal diplomatic recognition of Biafra, a cabinet spokesman said it would "not be false" to assume France now recognizes the secessionist province.

France thus became the only major nation to support Biafra. Only four small countries, Tanzania, Zambia, Ivory Coast and Gabon, have so far recognized Biafra. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union have been supporting the federal government of Nigeria.

Diplomatic observers interpreted the French move as a fresh effort by President Charles de Gaulle to exert France's independence on international issues.

In doing so, he struck a blow at Britain's most powerful former colony virtually on the eve of Biafra-Nigeria peace talks.

Secretary of State for Information Joel le Theuel said the French cabinet took its position after hearing a report from Foreign Minister Michel Debre.

"The French government is preoccupied and filled with emotion by the human drama in Biafra," said Le Theule.

"Independent of its worry over participating to the best of its ability in the humanitarian effort now under way," Le Theule said, "the government observes that the blood spilled and the sufferings endured by the people of Biafra prove their desire to assert themselves as a people.

"Faithful to its principles, the French government feels the conflict must be resolved on the basis of self-determination and with the aid of appropriate international procedures," he added.

Asked if that meant France recognized Biafra, Le Theule said, "this is an interpretation which is not false."

Officials Stop Funding Program For Two Chicago Youth Gangs

Washington (AP) — Antipoverty officials quietly abandoned Wednesday a stormy program for two youth gangs which Senate witnesses said siphoned off federal funds to buy firearms and marijuana.

The Office of Economic Opportunity shut off money for the skeleton staff left on the Chicago program. The decision made virtually certain the eventual refusal of a pending application for $1 million to continue the project.

The $927,000 experimental grant for the Blackstone Rangers and the Devil's Disciples last year has been assailed at Senate hearings which led to contempt charges against one gang leader.

'Gang Arsenals'

Witnesses testified that program training centers were used as gang arsenals and sites for sex and narcotics parties. They told the Senate investigations subcommittee that gang leaders collected kickbacks from federal paychecks given to enrollees in the training program and used the money for guns, drugs and police bail.

The Senate voted 80 to 0 to cite gang leader Jeff Fort, vicepresident of the Blackstone Rangers, for contempt after he refused to answer subcommittee questions and walked out of the hearings.

The program was halted in May, but three staff members remained on the project and The Woodlawn Organization (TWO), a South Side neighborhood body in Chicago sponsoring the program, had applied to antipoverty officials for more than $1 million to renew the job training effort.

Antipoverty researchers recommended the skeleton staff be kept at last until the Senate hearings are completed this fall, but the extension was vetoed by top officials of the agency Wednesday.

No formal announcement was made. The decision was disclosed by an authoritative source within the agency.

The program involved four job-training centers set up to try to teach skills to gang members and make them productive citizens. Gang leaders, many with criminal records, were named as instructors because OEO officials felt they could hold the respect of the youth.

Antipoverty officials noted that the gang leaders walked the streets of the Woodlawn area of Chicago after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and kept the area quiet while other cities burned. Violence flared on Chicago's West Side, but not on the South Side.

OEO sources said constant police surveillance of the program interrupted training efforts and undercut the effectiveness of the project. They said a similar program might be tried in some other city with a more promising climate next summer.

Two Equal National States Proposed In Czechoslovakia

Prague (AP)—A Czechaslovak Communist party secretary revealed Wednesday that draft provisions of the new Czechoslovak constitution provide for two equal national states with their own governments and parliaments as of Oct. 28.

The secretary, Cestmir Cisar, added in a speech that commission set up by the government propose a two-chamber legislative assembly on the federal level — the people's chamber, numbering about 200 deputies to be elected by all voters on a representative basis, and a chamber of nations, half Czech and half Slovak.

The enactment of laws would require passage in both houses. Cisar said: "The federal government will carry out work entrusted to it by the constitutiinal law. Its members will not only be ministers but also state secretaries chosen according to nationalitites."

The federal government would be in charge of foreign policy, foreign trade, defense, federal planning, federal finances and other matters of nationwide interest.

Cisar also mentioned that a minority group wanted a triple federation, including a Moravian-Silesian republic with its own government and parliament.

Cost Of Living Increases 0.5%; Apparel, Rent, Gas Prices Rise

Washington (AP) — Home buyers and home owners bore the brunt of a sharp increase in June in the cost of living.

The Labor Department reported Wednesday that practically everything for the consumer went up, particularly apparel, gasoline and cigarettes.

The cost of living, called the consumer price index, rose 0.5% in June over the previous month, reaching a level of 120.9 compared to the base of 100 in 1957-59. It cost 4.2% more to live in June of this year than in June of last year.

The monthy advance was the lragest since February 1966.

For the American buying a new home, Labor Department statisticians said mortgage interest charges rose nearly four per cent in June.

Taxes, Insurance Up

For the American who already has his home, the cost rose with advancing property taxes, home insurance rates and charges for home decoration and repair.

Rents went up 0.3% "in continuation of an accelerated upward movement," the department said.

A bright spot was the cost of eating at home. Actually, food and veverage prices went up but not as much as expected, and, seasonally adjusted they fell 0.3% at retail and 1.5% at wholesale.

The cost of eating out increased for the 54th consecutive month.

Clothing prices went up for the 10th consecutive month. Apparel prices rose 0.5%, seasonally adjusted, led by women's clothing and footwear.

Despite the rises in the cost of living, the department said real earnings, or what a worker has to spend, advanced to record levels.

Gross earnings for the average worker rose to $108.20 a week in June. Spendable earnings, which are gross pay less federal income and social security taxes, were $95.55 a week for the worker with three dependents, up $1.15 a week from May.

The increase in the cost of living means wage hikes for some 45,000 workers whose salaries are geared to the index. Most are in manufacturing and transportation industries.

Fulbright Faces Challenge Of Strong GOP Opposition

Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright survived his sternest election test in 24 years in Tuesday's Arkansas primaries but perhaps faces a stronger challenge in November against a Republican who has the all-out backing of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's organization.

Fulbright polled about 53 per cent of the vote against three Democratic foes who accused him of giving aid and comfort to the enemy because of his outspoken opposition to U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

He will be challenged in the Nov. 5 general election by Charles T. Bernard, 40, a wealthy farmer and businessman of Earle, who was unopposed for the GOP nomination.

Bernard, who predicted he would defeat Fulbright, said he hoped the peace talks in Paris will be successful.

"I feel we've got to find an honorable solution to Vietnam and surrender is not an honorable solution," he said.

Rockefeller, the state's first GOP governor since Reconstruction, won renomination easily over Sidney Roberts of Little Rock.

His triumph two years ago helped give Arkansas its first GOP congressman in 100 years, Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, and this year's drive will be to give the state its first Republican senator in a century.

Fulbright, who predicted he would receive 65 per cent of the vote, had 218,222 votes with 2,688 of 2,691 precincts reported. Jim Johnson, a self-styled segregationist from Conway, had 130,930 votes, Bobby K. Hayes, a furniture manufacturer from Calico Rock 51,419 and Foster Johnson, a music publisher from Little Rock 11,723.

Sea Floor Studied As Site For Bases

© New York Times Service

Washington — American oceanographers have been scouting the sea floor more than a mile under the ocean to find out if manned research and engineering centers — and possibly military bases — are practical.

Tests of the seabed off the Bahamas Islands in May showed that the sediments at 5,520 feet were stronger than had been previously believed and were capable of sustaining structures.

The surveys were made under the direction of the Environmenal Science Services Administration, which announced the tests Wednesday, in cooperation with soil specialists at the University of Illinois.

Dr. George H. Keller, Director of the Marine Geology and Geophysics Laboratory at ESSA's Atlantic Oceanographic Laboratories in Miami, and Dr. Adrian F. Richards of the Departments of Geology and Civil Engineering at the University of Illinois, directed the tests.

Knowledge of the strength and densities of the subsurface sediments, the scientists said in telephone interviews, was essential before deep underwater bases could be planned. They said such bases could be used for studying marine life, drilling for petroleum, mining ores and laying pipelines.

Dr. Richards said the sediment studies had shown that there was "no depth limitation" to underwater construction. "Installations might be built almost anywhere, but the cost might be extremely expensive," he said.

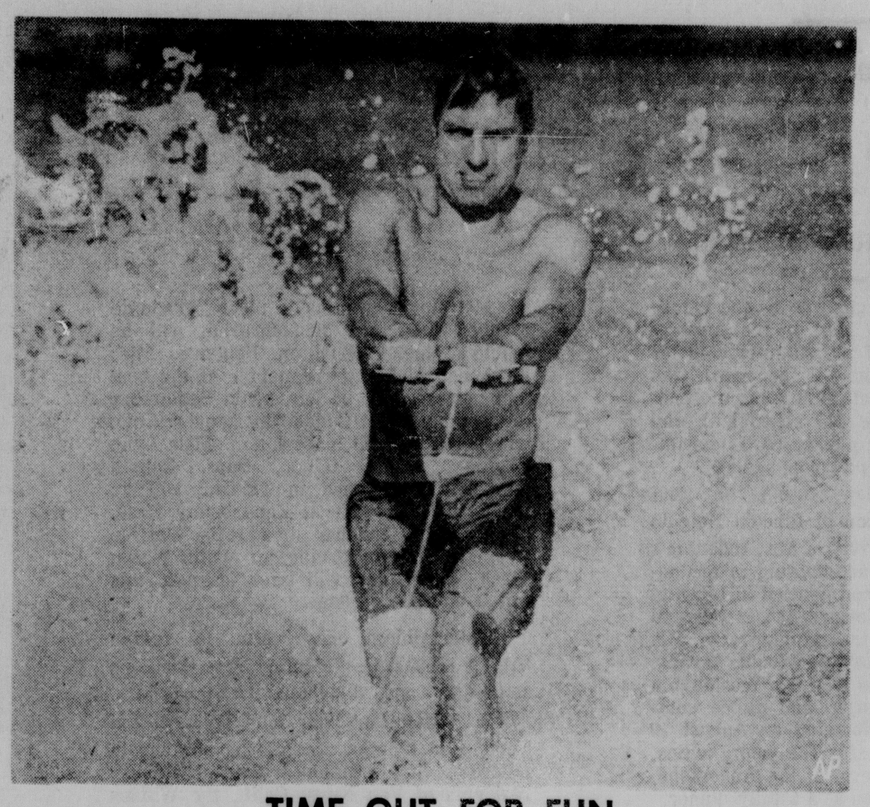

Dr. Keller said scientists had concluded from the Bahamas tests that the sediments "were slightly stronger and could sustain greater weights than had been anticipated."

Both Cautious

While both men were cautious about discussing the military implications of the surveys, it is known that the Navy is interested in the data that has been obtained.

Offense theorists, as well as the Office of Naval Research, have long toyed with the idea of constructing manned underwater bases, although they have admitted that the costs would be staggering.

Manned underwater submarine detection stations have been seriously considered as a means of countering the threats posed by potentially hostile submarines carrying nuclear warhead missiles of the Polaris type that could be fired from beneath the surface.

TIME OUT FOR FUN

Johnson Signs Bill Aimed At Controlling Delinquency

Washington (AP) — President Johnson signed Wednesday a bill aimed at controlling juvenile crime through a program ofprevention and rehabilitation.

The measure authorizes $150 million during the next three years for a combination of approaches to deal with youthful crime and potential delinquents.

In signing at a White House ceremony, the President said criminals "are made not born." They are the products of slums, bad schools, idleness and despair. While legislation will help, he said until "We get around to curing these causes of crime, we cannot stop crime or juvenile delinquency."

Congress passed the legislation under the spur of Justice Department statistics showing 55 per cent of all crime last year was committed by persons 19 or under.

The new law provides grants for states to help develop preventative and rehabilitative services for delinquents, construct detention and diagnostic facilities and train personnel in the field of juvenile delinquency.

The states are required to put up 50 per cent of the costs of construction projects and 60 per cent of the cost of rehabilitation projects.

Nixon Opposes Guaranteed Wage

Washington (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon leading Republican presidential contender, declared Wednesday, he could not support either a guaranteed annual income or any similar type of subsidy for the poor because it would simply perpetuate the problem.

"Instead of more millions on the welfare rolls, we need more millions on payroll," Nixon told a panel discussion at the National Association of Counties meeting.

"You do no favor for a man or woman with welfare," he said. "It's what people do for themselves that makes this country great."

He told the group of county officials it is essential "that unless we have some dramatic and new change — not simply pouring billions into old programs that have failed — we will have lost the game."

He charged that the administration's job training program only helps one person out of 10 get a job although it costs $10,000 per man per year.

Nixon's solution would be to substitute tax credits that would enable industry itself to administer job training. He also supported federal-state tax sharing and federal block grants without any strings attached to help finance local government.

"Dignity sounds like one of those words that doesn't feed a stomach, provide clothing or housing," Nixon said.

"Government can do a lot of things for a man. It can provide shelter, food and clothing but it can't provide him pride, dignity or self-respect.

"Until those on welfare develop a sense of pride and dignity you're not going to get . . ." results.

"I would not . . . I cannot support a guaranteed annual income or subsidy," he told the questioner on welfare problems. "It would simply perpetuate the problem."

Nixon said 8% of those on welfare lack training and education and to provide them with a guaranteed income would just keep them in that state.

Nixon also called for a "massive attack" on transportation problems in this country, warning that "if work patterns don't change by the year 2000 the people of Japan will have a higher per capita income than Americans."

He attributed this in part to the fact that Japan has a highly sophisticated mass transit network.

If elected President, Nixon said one of his first acts would be to set up a Hoover type commission to outline reorganization of the federal government.

Evening Ceremony

The chancel of St. Mary's Church was decorated with summer blossoms in tones of orange and bronze for the Wednesday evening, July 31, marriage of Miss Susan Wabs of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wabs of Norfolk, to John E. Ayers, son of Mrs. Melvin G. Ayers of Broken Bow, and the late Mr. Ayers. The ceremony was solemnized at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Ronald Patterson, and Miss Linda Gillespie, organist, played the wedding music.

Miss Patricia Wabs of Lincoln, attended her twin sister as maid of honor and wore a slender, floor-length frock of apricot silk and a wide-brimmed hat in natural straw. Her bouquet was fashioned of bronze chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was John Halbersleben of Lincoln, and seating the guests were Bruce Graig of Bethesda, Md., and Steve Lutz, Morrill.

The bride's slim gown of white linen was designed in the skimmer silhouette and trimmed with Venise lace. The lace formed the high throatline and edged the elbow sleeves, and was repeated in vertical bands at either side of the skirt, which featured released fullness at the back continuing into a cotillion train. Her bouffant illusion veil was held by a Dior bow of linen and lace, and she carried a cascade of orange-toned carnations and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayers will make their home in Colorado Springs, Colo., where the bridegroom, a former student at the University of Nebraska, will enter management training. The bride has served as an inhalation therapy technician on the staff of St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Lincoln Heights
Eastridge
Indian Village
Country Club Manor

August surely is going to be the month with the mostest — that is the mostest vacations (beware of the summer cold for doctors are few and far between), the mostest weddings (well almost the mostest, our files alone have 215 scheduled) and the mostest sporting events (AAU) swimming, horse racing and roller skaing).

Speaking of roller skating, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Anderson of Lincoln Heights are expecting the arrival of Mr. Anderson's nieces who will be participating in the national roller skating competition in Lincoln. Ten year old Chris Howard and 12 year-old Diane Howard are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Howard of Mount Vernon, Wash. Chris, who has won the Washington state regional free style and dance competition, will be performing on August 10 and 16. During their stay the young ladies, who will be houseguests of the Andersons, will be guests of honor at a family dinner.

Happy Birthday, Happy Birthday — It must be sung twice. Tuesday evening, July 30, Mrs. R. K. Kirkman and Harvey Swenson entertained 24 guests at a canape party and dinner at Mrs. Kirkman's home in Eastridge. The occasion was the dual celebration of Mrs. Kirkman's husband, Bob Kirkman's and Mr. Swenson's wife, Betty Swenson's birthdays, which both happen to be July 30.

There are even more festive goings on in Eastridge. Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Dean L. Petersen will be host and hostess at a farewell courtesy for four members of the collegian generation. The patio party will honor Miss Patrice Graham, Miss Lynn Graham, Miss Shirley Petersen and Bruce Borin, who are all leaving Lincoln this fall for places both far and near.

Mr. Borin, who is a recent graduate of the University of Nebraska, will be teaching high school in Beatrice. Miss Petersen, who is the daughter of the host and hostess, will be leaving in September for Temple Buell College in Denver, Colo, where she will be a freshman. Miss Lynn Graham, whose father, Capt. Donald Graham is stationed in Taiwan, will be teaching for a year at Zana Army Base, Zana, Japan, and her sister, Miss Patrice Graham, will be leaving for Walla Walla, Wash., where she will be a feshman this fall at Whitman College.

Entertaining houseguests in Indian Village is Mrs. C. A. McCoy. Mrs. McCoy's son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Hobart Wiltse and their sons, John, 2, and Todd, five months are staying in Lincoln before moving to Omaha in the fall. Former residents of Van Nuys, Calif., the Wiltses are both graduates of the University of Nebraska. In Omaha Dr. Wiltse will be an assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore L. Kessner of Country Club Manor have been spending lots of time lately visiting with travelers from the Southwest. Those travelers are Mr. Kessner's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Kessner and the southwest is New Mexico, specifically Hobbs, N. Mex. Mr. and Mrs. Kessner and their four children, Chuck, Glenda, Kathy and Cindy are the houseguests of Mr. Kessner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Kessner of Meadowlane. And of course since cousins will be cousins Chuck, Glenda, Kathy and Cindy have been up to all sorts of things with their cousins, Mike and Lisa, children of the Theodore Kessners.

Contest

Participating in the Lancaster County 4-H judging contest, held all day Tuesday at Christ Methodist Church, were more than 300 club members who learned the techniques of determining quality and standards in home economics judging.

Being judged were both beginning and advanced classes in foods, clothing and home living.

Picnic

Saturday will be a Red-Letter Day for 25 youngsters at the Cedars Home for Children who will be the guests of the Mrs. JayCees of Lincoln.

The day will begin with a visit to the Children's Zoo, followed by a picnic at the Antelope Park shelter house.

Mrs. Wayne Ruliffson is serving as committee chairman for the annual event.

Betrothal Revealed

The Nebraska Wesleyan campus will have an interest this morning in the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Bentley P. Colcock of Brookline and West Chatham, Mass., of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ann, to James Arthur Stillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elgar E. Stillman of Scotia.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Sept. 21.

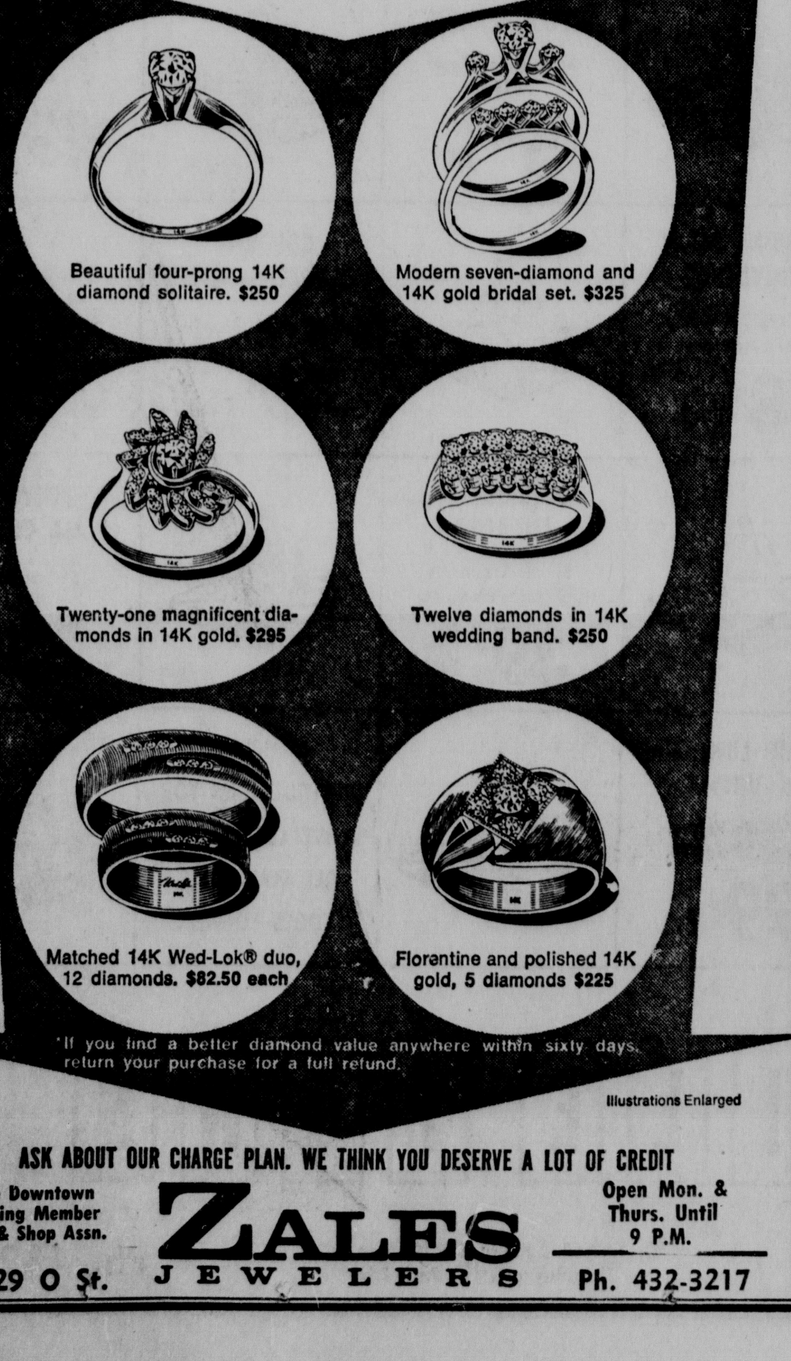

Miss Colcock attended Beaver Country Day School, and now is a student at Boston University.

Mr. Stillman is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, and now is a candidate for the T.H.M. program at the Boston University School of Theology.

Mrs. Fuhrer Celebrates

Are you tired, listless, unhappy and can't seem to manage any weekend fun?

We'll tell you how to remedy all of that. We learned from an expert, Mrs. John W. Fuhrer.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrer, who reside at Sky Park Manor had no spare moments last weekend, and the secret to having all of this fun, Mrs. Fuhrer will tell you, is to celebrate your 90th birthday anniversary, and she did just that last Sunday.

First there was a reception at Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrer's apartment between the hours of 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. When the last guest had departed Mrs. Fuhrer took a deep breath, powdered her nose and was off and away to a dinner at Hotel Cornhusker. The dinner, of course, was a family affair, and we hear that all of the day's festivity had been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Fuhrer's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford F. Sanders.

As you may have guessed, there is nothing tired, listless or unhappy about Mrs. Fuhrer — That's why she had such a good time on her 90th anniversary.

We Hear That

Visitors in Lincoln are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wanek and their sons, Jeffery and Andrew, who arrived last week from their home at San Ramon, Calif., for a visit with family members, Mr. and Mrs. Max Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wanek. The guests will leave this week to return to the west coast.

Opening lead — queen of spades.

The safety finesse is a play forced upon declarer by the special circumstances with which he is faced. In order to insure his contract, declarer takes a finesse he would ordinarily not take.

West leads the queen of spades and East signals with the eight. South ducks because he is anxious to prevent East's king from becoming an entry card. By refusing the trick South breaks a vital line of communication between the defenders which they would otherwise have.

West leads another spade which declarer wins with the ace. It is obvious that trumps must now be tackled, so South plays a low heart to the ace and a low heart back. East follows with the ten and South must decide whether to play the king or the jack.

Ordinarily, missing four to the queen, South would play for the drop. Mathematically, cashing the A-K is more likely to be successful in the long run than the finesse.

But this generality must not be followed blindly. In this case, for example, the finesse is mandatory. The problem is not so much to guess where the queen is located as it is to make sure of the contract.

The finesse guarantees the contract. Assume the worst happens and the finesse loses to the queen. There is then no East-West combination of cards possible to defeat the contract. With West on lead the king of clubs is in no danger and South is sure of at least ten tricks.

If declarer follows the general rule of playing for the drop in the present hand, he goes down. As soon as East gets in with the queen of trumps, he shifts to a club and South is defeated.

The safety finesse pays exceptionally good dividends in the actual deal when South winds up making twelve tricks instead of nine.

HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVES

New York — Mrs. Henry J. Kaiser never thought it was Indian enough and her husband used to complain because the banana tree outside his bedroom wasn't very prolific. But aside from that, the Kaisers' Honolulu estate was everything the late construction tycoon wanted.

"Marble," he said a year before his death last August. "I like marble and we have an awful lot of it."

And so they did. Nearly seven acres of it in a variety of nationalities and colors ranging from white to pale pink to jet black.

Marble floors. Marble walls. Crushed marble walks. A pink marble bathtub. Two sunken marble bars. A marble-topped table inset with mother-of-pearl. And a 25-meter white marble swimming pool rimmed with five-foot venetian marble lamps.

But that was by no means all.

The main house was a series of sweeping lanais. Macaws swung on gilded perches near the entranceway ceiling or swooped down to sit near Mrs. Kaiser. A lavender mosaic mermaid held a pink telephone in a white shell for those who suddenly decided to make calls just outside the front door.

The grand seigneur, and Kaiser most certainly was one, had his enormous blue-tiled bathroom lined with mirrows. Mrs. Kaiser had a pink bathroom with gold fixtures. Her curtains were pink and gold silk saris. The couple watched movies projected from the music room into the library.

She kept her furs in an air-conditioned closet. Her dogs lived in a $20,000 soundproof, air-conditioned kennel. The doves had their own white cage. It is doubtful if the Kaisers availed themselves of the basketball or volleyball courts.

Then there were the other buildings. The Kaisers pink boat dock to match the jeeps. The greenhouses where they grew orchids. The trophy house in the shade of a spreading monkeypod tree overlooking the tropical fish pond. The guest house, which was self-contained and very private. The boys' house with a kitchen and two bedrooms. The servants' separate quarters. The picnic house with a pool, four lavender, blue and white bedrooms and a bar.

But after Kaiser's death, the house just wasn't what Mrs. Kaiser wanted any longer. She gave the macaws and the dogs to friends. She lent the main house to President Johnson during last spring's visit and again this month.

She shipped the marble table, the bronze Buddha, the big silver flower urn and the large illuminated world globe to New York. She bought an apartment at the United Nations Plaza. She said she was sad to be leaving, and she put the Hawaiian estate up for sale.

Last april, the price tag was $2.5 million. It is now $1.85 million — perhaps $1.4 million for cash. The price does not include the land, which is leased. But it does include everything else and the mermaid.

"No mermaid ever wants to leave the islands," said Mrs. Kaiser's son Michael.

Nemaha Unit To Seek Aid For Watershed

Falls City — A steering committee for a 111,360 acre area of land on the south fork of the Big Nemaha River in the Dubois, Salem, Falls City area are completing the final work in preparing an application for watershed planning assistance which will be presented to the Nebraska and Kansas Conservation Commissions in September.

Approximately 24,900 acres lie in Kansas and the remaining 86,400 acres lie in Nebraska. Land involved comprises the drainages of Rock, Easley, Rattlesnake, Four-Mile, Honey Creek and Contrary Creek and a number of smaller unnamed streams all draining into the south fork of the Big Nemaha River.

The application is sponsored by the Pawnee and Richardson Counties Soil and Water Conservation Districts in Nebraska and the Brown and Nemaha Soil Conservation Districts in Kansas. Chairman of the steering committee is Ralph Whitney of Salem, Nebraska.

The Pony Creek Watershed of 37,540 acres, of which 5,540 acres lie in Nebraska and the remainder in Kansas, submitted an application for planning assistance in May of this year.

All of the land in the Nebraska portion of the Nemaha Rivers will now be under application for watershed development programs. This represents nearly 1,500,000 acres in Nebraska. Approximately 194,000 acres of the 391,000 acres in Kansas are also under formal watershed development activity.

19 Projects

There are a total of 19 individual watershed projects in the Nemaha Basin. Two projects, Brownell in Nebraska and Walnut Creek in Kansas and Nebraska covering slightly over 96,000 acres, have been completed. Thirty flood prevention structures and 59 grade stabilization structures in addition to the land treatment program have been installed in the two projects.

Watersheds of Ziegler Creek in Otoe County, Wilson Creek in Cass and Otoe Counties, Spring Creek in Johnson and Otoe Counties, Upper Big Nemaha in Lancaster, Gage, Otoe and Johnson Counties, and Rock Creek in Pawnee County all have approved plans and have an active structural installation program.

Sixty-nine of the planned 245 structures for these approved watersheds have been installed and seven structures in Wilson and Spring Creek Watersheds have recently been contracted for.

Watershed development planning continues in the remaining individual watershed areas. Initial engineering surveys have been made recently in Middle Big Nemaha, Lower Big Nemaha, Turkey Creek, Big Muddy, Long Branch and Lower Little Nemaha Watersheds. South Branch and Upper Little Nemaha Watersheds are in an advanced stage of planning and South Fork Watershed in the Dubois area is nearing the completion stages in planning.

Schwartz Given NU Soil Testing Laboratory Post

Eugene Schwartz, area agronomist since 1965 at the University of Nebraska Northeast Station near Concord, will assume duties as supervisor of the NU Soil Testing Laboratory here Aug. 5.

Schwartz has worked primarily on variety testing, grass and alfalfa fertility, row spacing and weed control in northeast Nebraska.

Dr. D. G. Hanway, chairman of the University's Department of Agronomy, said Schwartz will fill the vacancy left by Delno Knudsen, Extension agronomist, who is taking a leave of absence to study toward a Ph.D. degree at Kansas State University.

No announcement has been made concerning Schwartz's replacement at the Northeast Station.

NU Diggers Uncover Carefully Buried Dog

Just who they were nobody knows but the people who lived a thousand years ago on the banks of the Missouri near the present site of Plattsmouth went to a lot of gentle trouble to bury a dog.

That is one of the things a field party of University of Nebraska students found out in seven weeks of careful digging at the Walker Gilmore archeological site about five miles east of Murray in Cass County.

Dr. Preston Holder, chairman of NU's department of anthropology and director of the summer dig, declared, "I can't say that I'm thrilled with the results of this expedition but you have to admit that there's something interesting in finding that somebody gave a special burial to a dog maybe a thousand years ago — especially when the dog was pregnant with 10 pups."

The dog, Dr. Holder said, had been wrapped in a blanket of tree bark. The skeletal remains and a variety of artifacts from the site will be studied carefully at the University anthropology laboratory.

Some of the material, Dr. Holder said, will be tested by Dr. Robert DuBois of the University of Oklahoma in an effort to determine its age.

Dr. DuBois uses the relatively new archeo-magnetic method to fix the age of artifacts and his findings will be compared with results from the radio carbon method which have indicated materials from the Walker Gilmore site to be approximately 1,000 years old.

While not spectacular, Dr. Holder says the results of this summer's study are important.

"We have learned more about the structures these people built and we know that their habitation site was frequently flooded by backed-up waters from the Missouri," he explained.

"And furthermore this site has ben eroding and we should work it while we can."

Dr. Holder said the Gilmore site is considered quite important and has been studied by Professor John Champe and other University anthropologists since about 1912. This summer's camp included as many as 14 students at one time and has accomplished excavations approximately 15 feet deep involving the removal of 380 cubic feet of earth.

CAB Will Investigate United Fare Proposals

Washington (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Wednesday suspended and said it would investigate certain jet first class and coach fares and propellor first class fare which United Airlines proposed for various Western routes.

CAB said United had proposed, effective Aug. 1, 13 new jet first class and 19 new jet coach fares between Fresno, Calif., and other points on its system.

Other changes would add propellor first class fares between Fresno and Lincoln, Neb., and reduce the Fresno-Spokane, Wash., and Fresno-Grand Junction, Colo., propellor first class fares to the level of its proposed jet first class fares between the same points.

CAB said the fares proposed were at levels higher than the industry average fare for the distance and class of service involved. The board added that United had shown no basis or economic justification for its proposal.

Board member John G. Adams, in a dissent, said he would have permitted United "to apply its customer fare formula which the board hitherto approved."

Patient At State Hospital Apparent Drowning Victim

A 61-year-old female patient at the Lincoln State Hospital died Wednesday, apparently from drowning in a creek near the hospital grounds, officials reported.

The body of Mrs. Irene McDonald of Lincoln was found by another patient Wednesday afternoon.

An autopsy had been scheduled, county sheriff's deputies reported.

Over a year ago, a male patient at the hospital had wandered into the same creek area and drowned.

Deputies said the creek, a branch of Salt Creek, runs for several blocks along the west side of the hospital grounds.

Mrs. McDonald, a former employe at the hospital, was free to come and go on the grounds, hospital officials said.

She had last been seen about noon Wednesday. Her body was discovered at about 1:30 p.m.

Deputies said that the woman had reportedly been in fine physical health and that hospital officials felt her mental condition had been improving.

No Questions Asked About CountyBudget

No questions were asked about the proposed $8.9 million Lancaster County budget at a public hearing Wednesday. The only person attending was a woman who did not raise any questions.

The commissioners waited 15 minutes for any inquiries or comments about the proposed budget for 1968-69 which totals $8,893,025, a figure $382,884 less than the 1967-68 budget of $9,275,909.

Eight people attended the meeting last year in the county commissioners' office. In 1966 one man appeared and in 1965 no one attended.

Elderly To Perform

Senior citizens will present a program on the Show Wagon at 8 p.m. Thursday at Sheridan School, 3100 Plymouth, according to a report from the City Recreation Department.

Humphrey Aides, Delegates Meet

About 10 Lincoln-area delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention met last weekend with aides to Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

The meeting was held at the home of Jerry Kromberg of Lincoln, a delegate.

"It was a semisocial event," Kromberg said. "Delegates and alternates were invited so they could ask any questions they had about Humphrey or his position on the issues."

National Committeeman Marvin Werve also met with the vice president's aides in Omaha during their Nebraska visit.

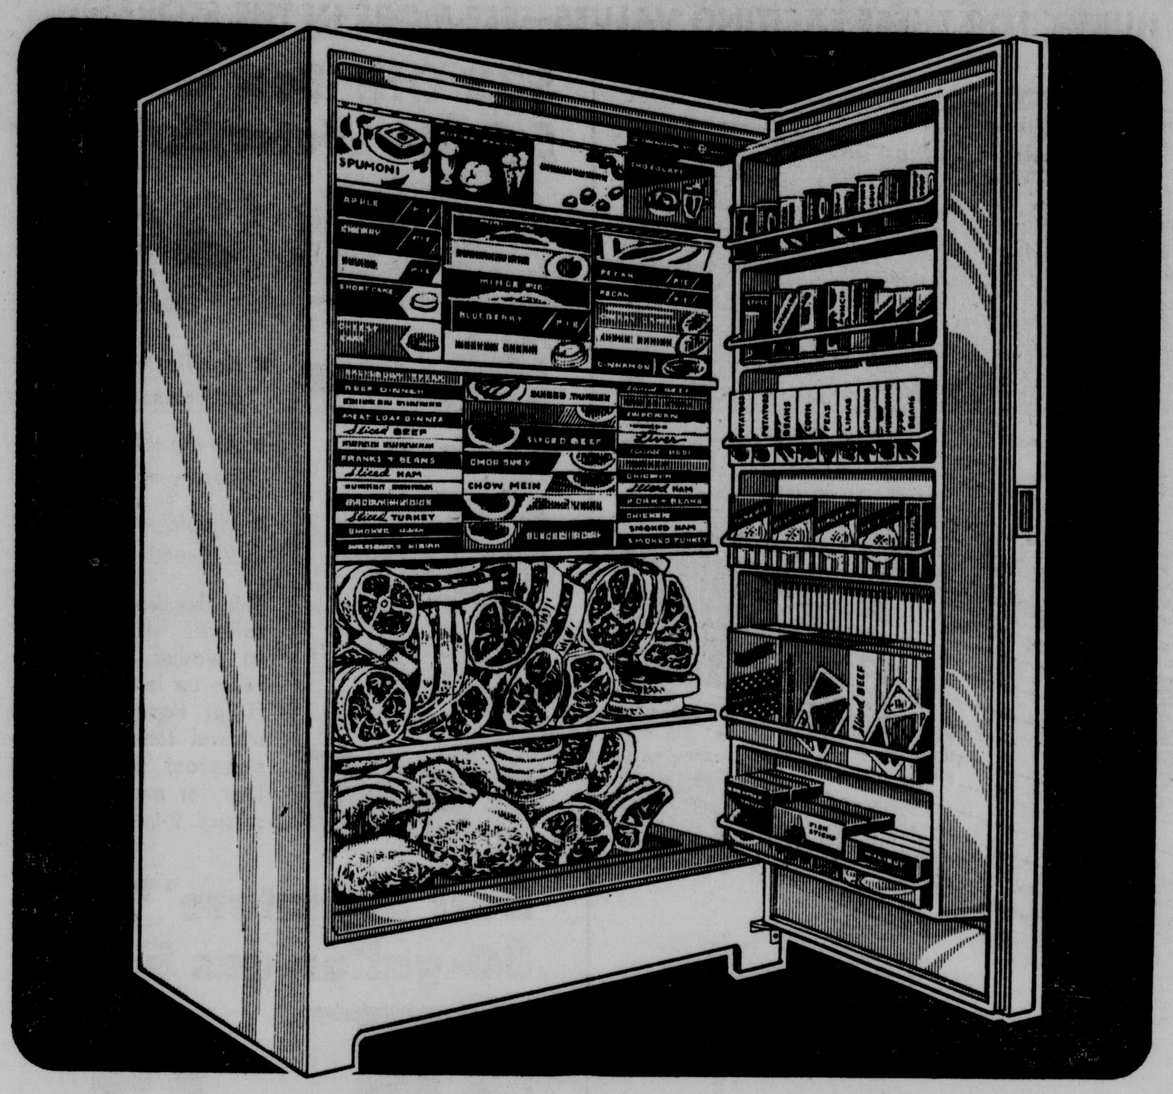

All but three persons on Nebraska's 30 member delegation are officially uncommitted on a presidential choice. However, at least 11 members of the delegation have already indicated an initial preference for Humphrey over Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

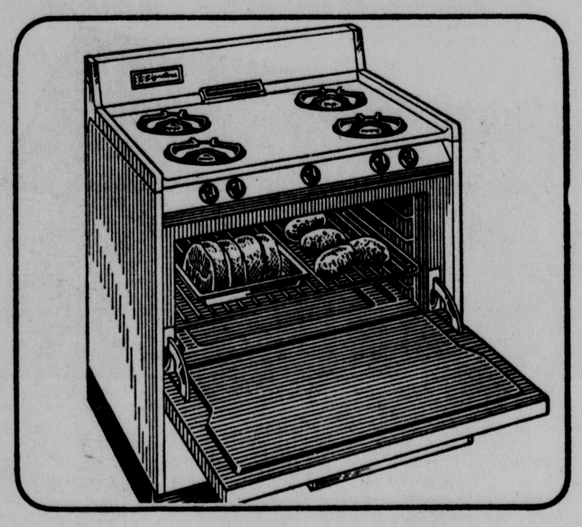

Werve is strongly committed to Humphrey, and Kromberg indicated his preference for the vice president in reply to a questionnaire from The Star.

Evening Of Show Tunes To Test Orchestra Shell

An evening of show tunes by a 55-piece orchestra, two vocal soloists and a chorus will be the first "test" of the city's new orchestra shell on Sept. 20th here.

The shell utilizes only the back half of Pershing Auditorium, moving the stage to the middle of the floor in an "arena concept."

Seating will be available for over 3,000 persons.

The arrangement turns Pershing into a "fine arts auditorium," much more suited accoustically for musical performances.

The Sept. 20th show will feature symphonic and choral arrangements of show tunes from five renowned musicals.

The songs include numbers from "Mary Poppins," "The Roar of the Greasepaint; The Smell of the Crowd," "The Fantastiks," "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Funny Girl."

Female vocalist will be Roberta Rosser from New York City, who has performed with the Buffalo and Baltimore symphonies.

The male vocalist for the program has not yet been selected.

Lincoln Symphony Director Leo Kopp will conduct the 55-piece orchestra, and Leo Hill will narrate the show.

The program is being sponsored by the Lincoln Promotion Council as part of their Fall Fashion Week.

Lawsuit Is Filed Seeking $25,000 In Car Accident

A $25,000 damage suit was filed in Lancaster District Court by Clyde Dittoe, in behalf of his 18-year-old son, Ronald, in connection with a one-car accident Feb. 16, 1968.

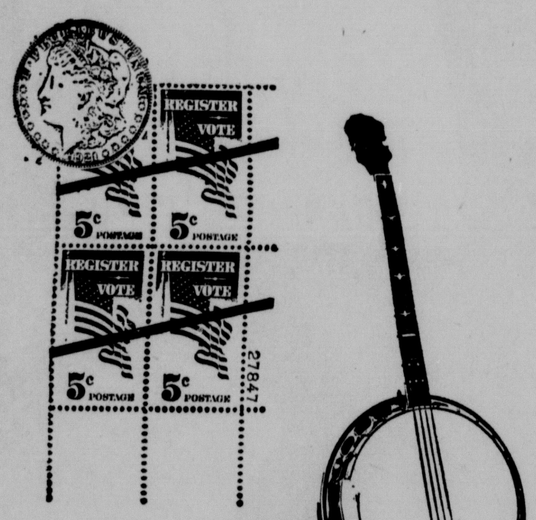

The plaintiffs allege negligence on the part of the defendants, James R. Webster and his father, Radmore Webster, when the car driven by young Webster in which Ronald Dittoe was riding, crashed into a tree.

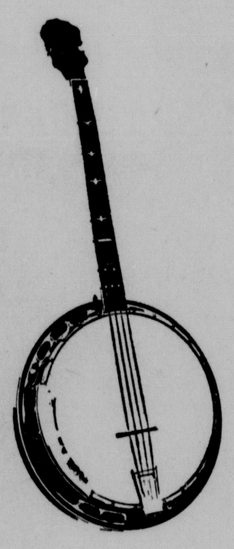

According to the petition, as a result of the accident which occurred on No. 46th St. between Huntington and Baldwin, the plaintiff received injuries to his hip and hands.

Ager Says 'All's Well' After Muny Pool Shift

City Parks and Recreation Director James Ager reported that "everything is going real well" at Muny Pool since the replacement of the pool personnel who resigned a week ago.

Ager said that the pool is being operated under the same procedures as it had been before the controversial shutdown.

The entire staff resigned July 20 due to alleged racial tension at the pool, and an integrated staff, including some persons who had resigned, was quickly hired.

Attendance is down at the pool, Ager reported. However, he added, attendance has been lower at all of the pools during the past few days probably due to the cooler weather.

Mayor OKs First Payment For LES Substation Land

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Wednesday authorized the first payment of $27,500 for a 57,500 sq. ft. tract of land at 56th and Q for a new Lincoln Electric System substation.

The remainder of the total purchase price of $102,500, plus 6% interest, will be paid in $25,000 installments each Jan. 1 through 1971.

The property, adjacent to the existing substation, is being purchased from Wilda M. Lambert, Robert E. and Norma D. Allen with money from the electric revenue fund.

The replacement substation planned for the site will include two 25,000 KVA transformers, a 115 KV oil circuit breaker and other equipment, reported LES district manager Pete Baird.

Total cost of the substation and equipment is expected to be between $400,000 and $500,000. Plans are for the substation to be energized sometime in 1971-72, Baird said.

Yugoslav, Rumanian Leaders Reported To Support Czechs

© New York Times Service

Washington — Presidents Tito of Yugoslavia and Ceausescu of Rumania are understood to have met in secret late last week to coordinate a political strategy aimed at averting a possible Soviet military intervention in Czechoslovakia.

According to diplomatic reports, the meeting is believed to have taken place in the hunting country along the Rumanian-Yugoslav frontier.

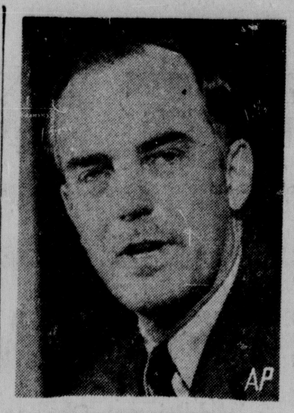

Both Communist leaders were reportedly absent from their capitals without official explanation from last Tuesday until the weekend.

The solidarity of these two independent-minded heads of state in support of the Czechoslovak leadership is credited with giving a decisive advantage to the Prague party leader, Alexander Dubcek, as he confronted the Soviet Politburo in Cierna this week.

Both the Yugoslav and Rumanian Communist parties have issued public declarations endorsing the right of the Czechoslovak party to pursue its own policies without outside interference.

Two weeks ago, according to East European diplomatic sources, Dubcek was assured in telephone conversations with both Tito and Ceausescu that the two presidents were ready to fly to Prague to demonstrate their support.

Report On Slum Markets Blocked

Washington (UPI) — A squabble between Republicans and Democrats Wednesday blocked a committee vote on whether to publish a controversial report criticizing supermarkets for discriminating against slum dwellers.

Both sides blamed the other for the delay. Another meeting of the panel — the government operations committee —was set for Thursday afternoon.

Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., tried without success to tone down the report, complaining that its language was too harsh and that some of its conclusions unsubstantiated.

Myers said after the closed session that acting chairman Chet Holifield, D-Calif., had ruled out of order his motion to substitute for the pending report a rewritten version he had authored.

The still-secret report, which through leaks has drawn the fire of the food chain industry, contends that some firms have discriminated against big city ghetto residents by charging them more than they charged customers in more affluent areas.

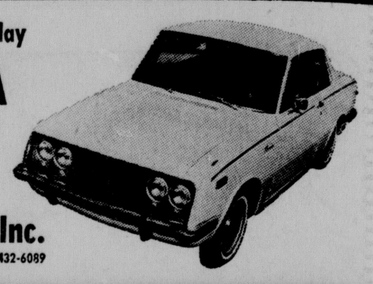

The report was compiled by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y.

Based on hearings conducted in Harlem, Washington and St. Louis, it also makes the accusation that food and sanitary conditions in the slum stores were often inferior.

Advice Of Reagan, Lindsay Contrasting

Miami Beach (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York offered Republicans starkly contrasting platform advice on the Vietnam war Wednesday.

"Fight to win" was the policy Reagan urged on platform writers while Lindsay said they should give the GOP candidate this fall a "clear, forceful mandate" to get out of the war.

The western conservative and the eastern moderate also disagreed on how to cope with domestic violence.

Lindsay said the way to end urban violence was through new jobs, housing, health and welfare programs. Reagan demanded firm measures to restore law and order to the nation's streets.

They did agree that the GOP platform should be meaningful, not just a face-saving document to appease the liberal and conservative wings of the party.

'Gray Zones'

"The gray safety zones which seek to accommodate the demands of reality to the pressures of expediency offer no real solutions and little hopes of leadership," Reagan told the convention's temporary resolutions committee.

The California favorite son candidate said it was time to "tell friends and foe alike we are in Vietnam because it is in our national interest to be there."

Abandonment of the war, he said, would weaken U.S. credibility abroad, open the way to greater aggression and "intoxicate the passion and whet the appetite of our enemies in every area of the world."

Lindsay said the war had "reduced our international prestige to the lowest point in modern history."

The New York Mayor said if crime and violence are to be eliminated in the country, "we must eliminate the hopelessness, futility and alienation from which they spring." He called for endorsement of the civil disorders commission recommendations which he said might cost about $20 billion over the next four years.

'Answer: Jobs'

Reagan said the answer to poverty was "jobs — no welfare . . . we cannot help the poor by bankrupting the nation."

He said, "We must reject the idea that every time a law is broken, society is guilty rather than the lawbreaker. It is time to restore the American precept that each individual is accountable for his actions."

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, told the committee the solution to urban ills "is beyond the financial ability of the city or state governments to handle. Federal money of substantial amounts will be required . . ."

Robert C. Hill, chairman of a GOP national committee task force on foreign relations, charged that President Johnson's policy of "gradualism has destroyed any opportunity for an early victory" in Vietnam but the Republican Party "should continue to support the President's declared objective of negotiatiing an honorable peace — one that would rule out a Communist takeover."

'Crisis Of Confidence' Seen In Latin America

© New York Times Service

Washington — Galo Plaza Lasso, secretary gneral of the Organization of American States, warned Wednesday that a "crisis of confidence" is growing in Latin America over U.S. willingness to honor its commitments under the Alliance for Progress.

This crisis has been precipitated, Plaza said, by recent congressional cuts in the foreign aid program and by a widespread Latin American fear that Congress "does not seem favorably disposed" toward a further extension of the level of commitments accepted at the start of the alliance and at last year's presidential "summit" meeting.

Speaking in the fluent English which he learned in Washington as a student and later as ambassador from his native Ecudor, Plaza summarized at a news conference in the Pan American Union the results of a month's trip to Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay.

"There are signs that the peoples of Latin America, who have looked to the alliance for salvation, are beginning to despair," he said. "Youth is growing restless and impatient at the growing gap between the have and have-not nations, in terms not only of income but also of scientific and technological advance."

Plaza, who headed a United Nations special committee on Latin American economic development in 1958 and 1959, emphasized that each U.S. aid dollar invested in Latin America helps to generate the equivalent of $8 locally invested. Each South American dollar, he pointed out, represents "more sweat and toil" than the one received from the U.S.

The secretary general assumed office in May. He plans to visit each of the 22 active member countries of the OAS before October. Cuba, although still a member, has been barred from active participation since early 1962.

Plaza said that he had found signs of progress in each of the five nations he visited.

Plaza said that he plans to "preach the good cause" of Latin American needs and goals throughout the U.S., talking with as many groups and with as many "influential" congressmen as he can. Asked whether there was a precedent for an OAS secretary general to contact congressional leaders on behalf of Latin America, he replied:

"I'm not interested in precedent. I'll contact as many people as necessary."

Reagan Recall Bid Said Colossal Flop

Sacramento, Calif. (UPI) — A drive to recall Gov. Ronald Reagan reached its deadline Wednesday and appeared to have fallen short. Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch and Secretary of State Frank Jordan called it a "colossal failure."

Backers turned in petitions to county election officials in all parts of the state to climax an effort to force the Republican governor to face a removal election this fall.

The drive ended less than a week before the opening of the Republican National Convention where Reagan may become a serious presidential candidate. Success of the recall campaign undoubtedly would have removed him from consideration.

Less than three hours after the deadline, Finch and Jordan, both Republicans, said in a statement: "There is every indication that the recall campaign is climaxing in a colossal failure.

"The results, as they are coming in, appear to represent an overwhelming repudiation of the movement by the people of this state. We are pleased that the governor has received a strong vote of confidence."

The drive was embroiled in a dispute over technicalities, including whether the petition carriers were legally entitled to 60 more days to try to force a recall election.

Edwin Koupal, a former automobile salesman who headed the six-month drive, estimated "something over 900,000" signatures had been collected statewide, including 300,000 in Los Angeles County, home of 40% of the state's voters.

The drive needed to collect 780,414 valid signatures from among California's eight million registered voters to force Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch to call a recall election, probably to coincide with the Nov. 5 general election.

Most experts, however, expected the recall effort, handled by inexperienced amatcurs for the most part, would have a fall-off of about at least 20 and probably as high as 40% between signatures received and those qualifying. Various technicalities cause a large disqualification when the signatures are checked against voter lists.

If 20% of the signatures were disqualified and if Koupal's estimate of 900,000 proved correct, the recall drive would barely qualify.

Koupal appeared to reflect pessimism. He told newsmen in Los Angeles that Reagan had done a "good job" in blocking the recall petitions and added: "This is the first time he has done a good job."

The recall backers charge Reagan is not competent in government and public affairs and accuse him of undermining the state's mental health program, injuring public education and trying to further his own personal ambitions from the governor's office.

In Los Angeles, deputy chief registrar-recorder Truman Chaffin accepted the petitions, after a two-hour dispute with Koupal over technical arrangements including a receipt, but told newsmen it would be some time before he could estimate how many had been submitted.

Koupal said the state consituation guarantees him another 60 days to file supplemental petitions if the first effort falls short and notified county officials around the state that he expected them to let him have the extra time.

But the assistant secretary of state, H. P. Sullivan, said the group would get no more time. He said state law provided a six-month period for filing the petitions and that the backers crossed that deadline at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Area Talent Displayed At Backyard Art Show

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

"Buy a painting and feed a starving artist?"

Well, no. You spread a little happiness if you bought a painting at a backyard art show in Lincoln Wednesday.

But the six housewife-mother-artists and 40 children who contributed work for the show put the emphasis primarily on ''sharing'' rather than sales.

Organized by art instructor Phyllis Westmoreland of 3141 So. 42nd, the "On and Over the Backyard Fence" show drew neighborhiod children, curious passersby, a reporter or two and, hopefully, a few buyers.

"We've got a few people coming back," Mrs. Westmoreland confided Wednesday afternoon.

The six adult artists, all housewives and mothers in the area around the Westmoreland home, provided the central attractions of the show.

But forty children who had also attended classes in Mrs. Westmoreland's home during the summer put their work up purely for display.

The children were given no prizes. Mrs. Westmoreland wanted it that way.

"I don't really believe in competition in something like this," she said. "An art exhibition should be sharing, not competing."

Colored signs pointed the way to the art show at strategic intersections near the Westmoreland home.

And there was no way for passing motorists or pedestrians to ignore the head-high wooden fence covered with bright paintings.

If the entire show was pervaded by an atmosphere of abandon, that, too, was according to plan.

"It's (painting) a good, healthy way to spend the summer," Mrs. Westmoreland noted."

"So often, in our schools or lives expression just goes by the way or is stifled."

There was none of that Wednesday.

Allies Smash Enemy Camp In Battle In Mekong Delta

Saigon (AP) — U.S. Navy gunboats, helicopter gunships and South Vietnamese marines smashed a large enemy base 92 miles southwest of Saigon in what military spokesmen Wednesday called ''an unprecedented allied penetration'' in the Mekong Delta.

The battle began Tuesday night and ended Wednesday morning. The allies counted 53 Viet Cong bodies and reported that two South Vietnamese marines were wounded.

Government troops searched the area after the clash and found 423 mortars, 62 weapons and more than 12,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition.

VC Cornered

The Vietnamese soldiers cornered the Viet Cong in bunkers where they were raked by helicopter gunships and blasted by the 60-foot Navy gunboats and American armored troop carriers. Spokesmen said the American craft inflicted most of the casuslties.

..A battalion of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division moved into position two miles from the battleground but reported no contact with the enemy.

Only light scattered skirmishes were reported elsewhere. In three small fig'ts on the outskirts of Saigon government troops said they killed seven enemy soldiers, captured six and seized 18 weapons and large quantities of ammunition.

Bomb Found

A small bomb tied to a trip wire was discovered Tuesday in an alley next to the six-story building housing offices of the U.S Agency for International Development. It was the first bombing attempt against an American facility reported in several months.

U.S. B52 bombers flew eight missions Tuesday and Wednesday, droppping 1,200 tons of bombs on enemy positions 30 to 60 miles northwest of Saigon.

American spokesmen said the B52s have dropped about 7,500 tons odd bombs in the past week on the provinces of Hau Nghia, Tay Ninh and Binh Long near the Cambodian border.

Senate Panel Delays Action On Justices

Washington (AP) — Action on President Johnson's Supreme Court nominations was delayed by the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday until September.

A meeting called by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., failed to produce a quorum of the 16-member committee. only five senators showed up.

Eastland said he would not attempt to have another meeting until Congress returns after Labor Day from a recess for the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

On June 26, Johnson nominated Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to succeed the retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren. Johnson also nominated another old friend, U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry, to take Fortas's place as an associate justice.

The Judiciary Committee completed nine days of hearings on the nominations July 23, but an attempt to report Fortas's nomination favorably a week ago was blocked by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Further delaying tactics in the committee are possible when Congress returns for a post-conventions session, and the nominations also are threatened by a filibuster in the Senate itself.

Bad Check Count Is Facing Starr

Omaha (AP) — Russell L. Starr, 45, arrested in Oklahoma last week in connection with an Omaha slaying is in the Douglas County jail facing charges for writing an insufficient fund check.

Starr, of Omaha, was arrested at Eufaula, Okla., after policemen noticed a newspaper story in Starr's suitcase, telling about the murder of Robert Aaron Feller, 30, of New York City.

Feller, shot in the back, was found dead in Omaha July 19.

Detectives who returned Starr from Oklahoma said his whereabouts in Omaha at the time Feller was killed could be accounted for.

Packers Rated 19-Point Favorites Against Stars

Chicago (AP) — The odds are about three touchdowns against Norm Van Brocklin continuing his coaching annoyance of the Green Bay Packers in the 35th All-Star Football Game at Soldier Field Friday night.

Van Brocklin is making his All-Star debut after a six-season reign as boss of the Minnesota Vikings during which the upstart Vikings never were shut out, twice won and dropped two cliffhangers in 12 meetings with the mighty Packers.

This is a good spot for the former Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia Eagles star quarterback to utilize his pro know how on an eager 50-man collegiate squad against the Packers, who are seeking a third straight shutout of the All-Stars.

Lagging 23-9-2 in the classic series sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., the All-Stars are rated as much as a 19-point underdog against the National Football League powerhouse.

However, the Packers — unveiling Phil Bengston as coaching successor to retired Vince Lombardi — were the last victims of the All-Stars, losing 20-17 five years ago in the 1963 contest.

Van Brocklin has been honing the All-Star squad the past three weeks at Northwestern University, avoiding any boasts which might irritate the Packers but displaying the independence that marked his now ended Viking coaching regime.

The Dutchman said he will call each play for his quarterback tandem of Gary Beban of UCLA and Greg Landry of Massachusetts. He skipped a traditional game-type scrimmage with the Chicago Bears a week before the All-Star game.

And he also called off the usual light "dress rehearsal" in mammoth Soldier Field the night before the game, asserting it had no benefit for the players.

Van Brocklin also set some sort of precedent by selecting only two quarterbacks from the cream of last season's collegiate crop. He said he preferred to concentrate on a pair rather than waste field and scrimmage time on several other quarterbacks who might not have much chance to get into the game.

The All-Stars may be able to move the ball against the Packers behind fine throwing Beban and Landry, a bevy of good receivers and a brace of rugged 240-pound backs in Larry Cszonka of Syracuse and Lee White of Weber State.

Defensively, the All-Stars are in for an acid test against the passing of Bart Starr and the running of Jim Grabowski, Elijah Pitts and Donny Anderson.

Co-captain Major Hazelton of Florida A&M heads the collegiate secondary which can make or break the chances for an all-Star upset.

Such All-Star linebackers as Fred Carr of Texas-El Paso, a Packer draftee, Adrian Young of Southern California, Mike McGill and Wayne Meylan of Nebraska are highly rated.

Like the All-Stars the Packers also will conclude preparations Thursday via ABC beginning at 8:30 p.m. CDT. There will be no radio broadcast.

without a look at Soldier Field. The Pack will arrive from Green Bay Thursday afternoon.

Dorothy Coasts Again In Women's State Golf

. . . JEAN ELIMINATES CHRISTIE, 3 AND 2

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Omaha — Lincoln's Dorothy Schwartzkopf, playing the best golf of anyone in the tournament since opening day, now faces the task of getting by tourney favorite Mary Bea Porter of Millard in today's semifinal round of the Nebraska State Ladies Golf Tournament here.

Mrs. Schwartzkopf had the best front nine score of the day here Wednesday with a three-over-par 39 in coasting to an 8 and 6 victory over Omahan Joan Martig in quarterfinal play at the Happy Hollow Country Club.

Dorothy will meet Miss Porter, a 4 and 3 victor over Peanut Jones of Omaha, while Jean Hyland, a 3 and 2 winner over Christie Schwartzkopf, will take on Kathy Waters, a 5 and 4 conqueror of Donna Tobin of Omaha, in today's semifinals. The two winners will meet Friday in the 36-hole final.

Dorothy, playing superb golf, was even par through the first seven holes, winning all seven for a 7-up margin at the nine-hole turn.

She won the first two with pars, the third with a birdie, the fourth with a bogey and the fifth, sixth and seventh with pars before she and Miss Martig halved the eighth and ninth with a bogey and double-bogey, respectively.

After halving the 10th with pars and the 11th with bogeys, Dorothy ended the match with a par at the 12th, giving her an 8 and 6 triumph. She was four-over-par through the 12 holes played.

It was the second one-sided victory in as many matches for the runner-up in the Lincoln city tournament, having defeated Lois Remington of Omaha, 7 and 5, Tuesday.

In going against Miss Porter, she will be facing the tourney favorite and medalist with a two-over-par 74 Monday. The 18-year-old Millard girl, who just returned from California where she graduated from high school two months ago, has won the Omaha city crown the past two years.

Miss Porter and Peanut Jones, another youngster, halved eight of the first nine holes with Porter winning the second with a par as she made the turn with a five-over-par 41 score.

She then went 4-up by winning the 10th with a birdie, the 11th with a par and the 12th with a par. When they halved the next three holes, Miss Porter had the 4 and 3 victory.

Christie Schwartzkopf's match started almost like her mother's except in inverse order with Lincoln city champion Jean Hyland going 6-up on the first eight holes.

Joan won the first hole with a birdie, the second with a par and the third and fourth with bogeys. She added the sixth and eighth with pars, before Christie began a strong comeback at the 10th.

Christie won the 10th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th, all with pars before Joan braked the rally by ending the match with a par at the 16th.

Jean made the turn in 40, giving strong indications that another of the classic Schwartzkopf-Hyland duels could be coming in the finals Friday.

Kathy Waters, Jean's opponent today, is moving up to the women's tournament after winning three straight junior titles.

McLain Posts 21st Win As Nats Fall

. . . CARDS WIN AGAIN

By Associated Press

Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers, aiming to become the first 30-game winning pitcher in the major leagues in 34 years, chalked up his 21st of the season Wednesday night.

McLain, a right-hander who has lost only three times, threw a four-hitter for the American League leaders in blanking Wasington 4-0. Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline provided his hitting support.

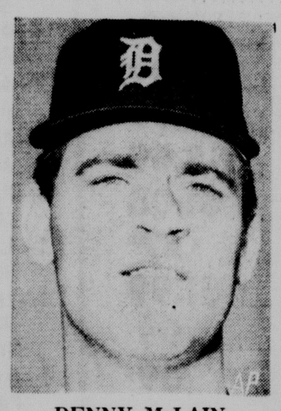

McAuliffe hit a homer, two doubles and a single and scored all of the Tigers runs. Kaline drove in two runs with three hits.

St. Louis, the National League pace-setter, beat Philadelphia 3-2 and finished the month of July with a 24-6 record. Nelson Briles pitched a six-hitter for the Cards and Lou Brock scored what proved to be the winning run from second base on a bunt in the seventh.

Baltimore beat Cleveland 4-2 on Elrod Hendricks' two-run homer in the sixth and the New York Yankees came up with five runs in the ninth to down Boston 7-3.

Horace Clarke doubled home two runs for the Yanks with two out in the ninth.

Hank Aaron drove in two runs with a double, then singled home the winning run in the fifth as Atlanta downed the New York Mets 3-2. Ernie Banks hit two homers, the 459th and 460th of his career, to lead the Chicago Cubs over Houston 6-1.

DENNY McLAIN

Cincinnati and Pittsburgh split a twi-night doubleheader. The Reds took the first 8-2 behind Gerry Arrigo's five-hitter. The Pirates routed the Reds in the second game 10-1, helped by homers by Roberto Clemente and Donn Clendenon and a triple play in the fourth inning.

The Chicago White Sox exploded for six runs in the ninth and beat Minnesota 12-8. Tim Cullen's three-run double keyed the rally.

Mike Hershberger's three-run homer in the eighth gave Oakland a 4-1 over California in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

WRIGHTSON TOP DIVER

Cynthia Potter Leads Women

. . . SWIMMERS SET TODAY

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

Bernie Wrightson, pushing hard to make up for his near miss in the last Olympic year, and point-sized Cynthia Potter won the men's three-meter and women's one-meter diving championships to head two excellent springboard competitions that opened the 1968 AAU Swimming and Diving championships at Woods Pool Wednesday.

The first eight finishers in these two events, as well as in all those that follow the next four days, qualify for the Olympic Trials in Southern California in late August.

Two more diving and eight swimming finals are on tap for today, starting with preliminaries at 9:30 a.m. An accompanying schedule includes the complete roundup.

Both defending champions, Keith Russell and Lt. Micki King of the Air Force, took fifth places in some of the best diving ever performed anywhere.

Wrightson wound up fourth, one place off the team, in the 1964 Olympic Trials, though he participated with a very painful shin infection. Wednesday he clinched his eighth AAU diving title by plunging for 81.48 points out of a possible 84 on his last dive, a 1½-reverse with a 1½-twist.

"That's the highest score I can recall in any U.S. championships," his coach at Arizona State, Dick Smith, said later at poolside. Smith, who coached the women divers at Tokyo, is men's diving coach for the Mexico City games.

"In 20 years of coaching, the diving overall today was the best I've seen," Smith added.

Wrightson himself had momentary doubts on his last dive. "I didn't think it was a good one when I hit the water," he said after just getting back from a TV interview. "Some dives you just FEEL they're good ones but I didn't think that one was that good.

"It was one of the toughest contests I've been in; the diving as a whole was superb. In other meets, if you scored eight on a dive you gained ground but today you had to score eight just to stay up with them."

Bernie, whose mother was born in Lincoln and who still has relatives living in the Capital City, is now taking a leave from his duties with the Navy in Long Beach, Cal. This came after eight months completely out of diving after the World Student Games last year and he claims, "That rest did me more good than any working out would have done."

Now 24, Bernie plans to hang 'em up after this year and go on immediately to Officer Candidate School with the Navy. He finished up at Arizona State in 1966, where he was NCAA three-meter king one year.

Russell, who is also under Smith's tutelage at ASU made one bad dive, when he was off on his backward 2½ somersault and Smith claimed "If Keith had not missed that gainer he would have been second. Keith was No. 1 springboard diver in the world in 1967 and Bernie was No. 1 in springboard in 1965 and No. 1 on the platform in 1966.

"I think Bernie will go down as one of the finest divers of all time. Jim Henry and Win Young (3-4 behind Rick Gilbert) are very, very great divers and Bernie and Keith are never in a comfortable lead against them."

Smith operates a training camp in the summers near Phoenix in which boys and girls from all over the world learn what it's about. The most interesting thing about the camp is that these youngsters train right alongside Wrightson and Russell in workouts. That's like taking batting practice with Matty Alou.

Miss Potter, a 17-year-old freshman-to-be at Indiana University and high school graduate of Houston's Lamar High in Texas, is 5-1 and weighs 102 but stood taller than any of her competitors Wednesday for her first national championship.

She scored her best with a half-twist and forward 1½ with two twists, which was her last dive and the one that pushed her to the front. "I was second or third going into that one and really wanted to do well," she said.

"It's not really easy and you have to concentrate on getting up in the air," she replied when asked how it was possible to do all that turning just above the water. "I've been in training for the Olympic Trials in Bloomington (Ind.) since June 14 and combined do about 70 dives a day."

DOUBLE DIVER . . . Micki King does double duty in trying to defend 1-meter crown.

Barry's Fate Up To Judge

San Francisco (AP) — Counsel for Rick Barry contended Wednesday that the San Francisco Warriors were trying to "enforce a perpetuity" in their suit to force Barry to play one more year for the National Basketball Association team.

The contention by attorney Robert Holtzman was in closing arguments of the lawsuit being heard by Superior Court Judge Walter Carpeneti without a jury.

The Warriors' lawyer, Richard J. Archer, in his closing argument, reviewed the evidence contending Barry's absence last season hurt the team at the box office and in the standings.

Barry, the NBA leading scorer in 1966-67, jumped to the rival Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association for a 3-year $225,000 contract and a share of the ownership.

A court order enjoined him last season from playing for anyone but the Warriors, so he sat out the season.

In the present suit the Warriors and owner Franklin Mieuli contend Barry's contract required him to play for them another season.

Barry's lawyer argued that the NBA contract was one-sided and based on "ownership of an individual by a corporation."

Archer, however, contended that a personal services contract can be enforced for seven years and that Barry would have to sit out that long, and even then be liable for damages.

Judge Carpeneti planned to conclude the case late Wednesday and then take a month's vacation before making a decision.

Adams Leads Junior Golf By Seven Shots

. . . ATTENTION NOW ALL ON GOLF

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

Joe Adams likes football and that's something his golf opponents should appreciate.

Joe's attendance at a University of Nebraska football camp at Central City prevened him from entering several other golf tournaments earlier this summer, but he returned to the links in convincing fashion this week.

Firing an 81 at Holmes Park Wednesday, Joe soared to a seven-stroke lead in the City Junior Golf Tournament with a 54-hole total of 245.

Rick Gorham, his nearest rival, shot an 85 for a 252 total, two strokes ahead of Bill Kell and Steve Buethe as the tournament heads into its final round at Pioneers Park today.

Adams, a Southeast High junior who plays football, basketball and golf, missed the Jaycees city and state tournaments and the state junior amateur tourney while attending the foootball camp conducted by Bob Devaney & Co. early in June.

A soft-spoken youngster who likes math and is interested in a career in automation or computer work, Joe was the first-string quarterback on the Knights' sophomore grid team last year. He also played on the sophomore basketball team and shared time on both the varsity and reserve golf teams.

Last year Joe was fifth in the City Junior Golf Tournament and first in the Lincoln Associaton of Life Underwriters' tourney held at the Junior Golf Course.

Joe admitted Wednesday he stood a pretty good chance of sacking up the championship, "If I can just get some sleep tonight," he said.

Nearly 120 youngsters are competing in the tournament, which was divided into nine flights after Tuesday's second round.

Kent Seacrest, who missed the championship flight by just one stroke, took a commanding eight-stroke lead in the first flight when he posted an 86 Wednesday for a 54-hole total of 271. His closest challenger is Kim Coonrod at 279.

Say-Peanuts Warms Chilly Aunt Priscilla

Cool weather and a $10 winner. Now that's my kind of horse racing!

It was so cool at the Fairgrounds Wednesday that I even wore my sweater, and that's unusual for this time of the year.

Priscilla

I'm glad Say-Peanuts won, too. That made me nice and warm inside and it also warmed my purse a little with the $10 I received for my win ticket.

Unfortunately Rose O'Mahmoud, my other selection, ran third.

With my spree fund back up to $94 now, I'll shoot for the $100 mark with $2 win tickets on Enola Jet in the fourth and Pelon in the eighth.

Gassed Up Out Of Gas

Roving Tigress pulled a bit of a surprise at the State Fairgrounds Wednesday as she ran off with the first-place money in the Nebraska State Fair Futurity.

Ridden by Dave King, Roving Tigress moved to an early lead in the six-furlong chase for two-year-olds, then held off Dorcount and Kem Jr. to win by a length and a quarter.

The victory by Roving Tigress earned her owners, Walter M. and Donald H. Rees of Norfolk, $2,478 out of a total purse of $4,130 in the $3,000-added event.

Gassed Up, the favorite owned by Jerry Kirby of David City, was bumped badly leaving the starting gate and was never really a factor in the race. The winner of the $11,000 Ak-Sar-Ben Futurity, finished fifth.

More Sports, P. 38

Roving Tigress returned $19.40, $8.40 and $3.80, while Dorcount paid $14.80 and $5.60 after finishing a length ahead of $2.80 show horse Kem Jr.

Apprentice jockey Bernard Howland was a triple winner with first-place showing atop Lance Princess in the second, Open Leaf in the fourth, and Say-Peanuts in the fifth.

Lincoln-owned horses won back-to-back victories in the second and third races. Second-race winner Lance Princess is owned by Dr. H. C. Zellers, while third-race victor Charlies Gold is owned by Lincolnite Jerome W. Hittner.

Elks Wetted Down

The Elks League baseball semifinal was postponed again Wednesday night by muddy grounds. Del Gould and Gerry's will try again tonight at Elks Filed to decide the championship contender against Pepsi.

Hastings scored three runs in the first on Mike Hardin's walk, a single by Jim Stevenson and doubles by Alex Walter and Dick Johnson but Marascelco's took the lead in the next inning with four runs, three of them on Tim Bolz' homer.

Chris Salsberg homered for Marascelco's in the fifth, then the Omahans wrapped things up with four in the sixth, Hastings contributing shoddy fielding and winning hurler Bob McGreuder and Salsburg belting run-scoring singles.

Exec Handicap Looks Promising

Saturday's Executive Board Trophy Handicap could bring together the best field ever assembled at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds, according to racing secretary and handicapper Jack Fickler.

The meet's richest race carries a purse of $5,000 for 3-year-olds and up over one mile and 70 yards.

Fickler said he's had indications of interest from owners of many of the top thoroughbreds on the Fairgrounds. "Of course, weight assignments and other factors can make some changes, but right now it looks very good," Fickler said.

Nats' Ron Hansen Pulls Triple Play

Cleveland (AP) — Shortstop Ron Hansen of the Washington Senators pulled off an unassisted triple play, the first in the major leagues since 1927, against the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

Dave Nelson opened the second inning for Cleveland with a single and Russ Snyder walked before Joe Azcue lined to Hansen, who stepped on second base, doubling Nelson, and then tagged Snyder coming into second.

Only seven other players had accomplished the feat. The last two were by shortstop Jim Cooney of the Chicago Cubs and first baseman John Neum of Detroit in 1927.

Shrine Profiles

BILL GORHAM

Though co-captain of the Bellevue High football team, Bill Gorham was also a three-year basketball and two-season baseball letterman.

Gorham

Gorham, a 5-8, 155-pound halfback, was honored with the Omaha Kiwanis Club football award in addition to being named to the Metro Conference honorable mention team.

President of the B-Club, the Bellevue letterman's organization, Gorham plans to pursue a career in fish and wildlife management.

He will wear No. 23 for the South squad.

JERRY BECKING

Scottsbluff's Jerry Becking is another Shrine Bowl all-star football player on the North team who earned both conference and all-state honors during the past gridiron season.

Becking

Becking, in addition to earning his letter in football for three seasons, was also a track and basketball standout for the Bearcats.

The 6-1, 185-pound end has tried to parallel his career after that of his pass-catching hero, Baltimore's Raymond Berry.

Becking says he got his biggest sports thrill, not from catching one of his own team's aerials, but rather his interception of one by the enemy as a sophomore.

Providence, R.I. — Jack Heffernan was named Saturday as interim director of athletics at Brown University for one year, starting July 1.

Takayama Wins

Tokyo (AP) — Masataka Takayama, 135, of Japan outpointed Ray Miller, 133, of Manila in a 10 round bout Wednesday night.

Kansas City Eyes Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A representative of the Kansas City Royals, an expansion team in the American League next year, visited Omaha Wednesday to confer with Mayor A. V. Sorensen.

The Royals' director of player development, Lou Gorman, said he hoped to obtain Omaha as the new entry's No. 1 farm team. But he said he did not expect an immediate decision.

Omaha has been out of organized baseball since 1962 when the Los Angeles Dodgers withdrew their Triple-A team.

Gorman said the Royals are willing to operate as full owner and take all financial responsibility or share the responsibility with local interests.

Baseball

Baltimore (AP) — Shortstop Ray Oyler of the Detroit Tigers jammed his left ankle in the first inning against Baltimore and had to be removed from Sunday's game.

Wahoo Girl Tops Junior Golfers

Edwards, Schofield Aid Cardinals As Reserves

. . . BETTER BENCH BOOSTS BIRDS

New York (AP) — It's what's up front that counts with the St. Louis Cardinals, but the National League's 1967 runaway winners are even better this season because of what comes next.

Manager Red Schoendienst has been able to play some of his regulars less and still enjoy it more because he now has catcher Johnny Edwards and infielder Dick Schofield.

Edwards, 30, acquired after two terrible years in Cincinnati, has filled in for Tim McCarver by hitting .269 with 20 runs batted in in 141 times at bat. He also is second on the club in game-winning hits with eight.

Schofield, no ball of fire his last four years with four different clubs, has hit .256 while spelling Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier.

The pair replaced catcher John Romano, who hit .121 with two RBIs behind McCaver, and Ed Bressoud, who hit .134 with one RBI as the utility infielder.

With almost the same starting line-up as last season's world champions, Edwards and Schofield have supplied that extra from the bench and the Cardinals are speeding even faster toward another pennant.

"I'm just happy to contribute, even if it's only once a week," said Edwards, who turned in dismal .191 and .206 averages his last two years at Cincinnati where he was the All-Star catcher in 1963 with two good seasons to follow.

"Those last two years I didn't contribute anything. I was in a rut over there. I hit 17 homers in 1965 and they wanted me to pull everything after that, and it fouled me up. The best thing that could have happened to me was to be traded."

Edwards was not overjoyed about coming to the Cardinals, where he was almost certain to be playing second string behind McCarver, "but I've played more than I thought I would. Tim's the best catcher in baseball, but he's been struggling a bit."

Fortunately, Dick Sisler, the man who helped Edwards with hitting at Cincinnati, also came to the Cardinals as a coach and has worked with Edwards to get out of the pulling habit.

"It's just a different environment here," Edwards said. "Winning is a contagious attitude on this club. And there's more talent on this team by far than any I've ever been on."

Schofield, in his 16th major league season at the age of 33, started with the Cardinals as a bonus baby in 1953, but never had it so good with the Cardinals after seasons of .209, .221, .155 and .216 the last four years.

"I've played in about half the games," he said, explaining the reason for his fine showing. "I'm just trying to do my share. And playing for a winner makes a big difference."

Bob's Defense Key In Tourney Hopes

If sparkling defensive plays decide any of the district softball games beginning Thursday at Ballard Field, Bob's Tavern will likely be the team on the long end of the score.

One of the three new entries in the city's AAA softball league this season, the Ernie Thomas coached team has been the most successful with a 12-10 league record to date.

"We only get four or five hits a game and have only two homers. It's our defense which is winning games for us," Thomas said.

He made that statement before his top pitcher Len Huskinvelt (6-5) hurled shutout ball for 11 innings Monday only to lose 1-0 to Roberts-Skyline on a home run by Roger Kaltenberger.

The defeat put Bob's at 4-4 in the second half after they finished 8-6 on the first go-around.

Playing behind Huskinvelt are Luke Cox at first base; Randy Calfee, the club's top hitter, at second; Ron Peet at short and Jack Calfee at third.

Thomas has also acquired the pitching services of Jim Gore during the past two weeks. Gore, up from Ben's Auto Polish in the AA ranks, defeated defending state champion King's, 5-1 in his only start thus far.

Doing the catching is Ron Ritchie with Doug Loss and Russ Lewis in reserve. Bench strength includes Charlie Draper, a pitcher and outfielders Arnie Vachal, Floyd Neiswanger and Charles McDaniels.

"We didn't hit too well the first half which I expected coming up here facing AAA pitching for the first time. But, I'm well satisfied with the team's play," said Thomas.

"A lot of the kids are young (nine starters went to Northeast) and most played Legion ball together." The only team Bob's has not beaten is Roberts-Skyline.

They may yet get another crack at them during the double elimination district tourney which will produce Lincoln's two state tournament entries.

The nine-team affair, sponsored by the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce begins with three games at 6:30, 8 and 9:30 p.m. Thursday. The same time schedule applies Friday.

On Saturday, game times are noon, 1:30, 3, 4:30, 6:30 and 8 p.m. Sunday games are at 2, 3:30, 6:30 and the finals at 8 p.m.

Four other district tournaments will produce two teams for the state meet beginning Aug. 15 at Ballard — at De Witt, Fremont, Hastings and Scottsbluff. There will be two host teams named for the 12-team tourney.

The first round pairings:

Thursday — 6:30 p.m. — Bair v. Burmood; 8 p.m. — King's v. Flynn's; 9:30 p.m.—Spigot v. KOLN.

Friday—6:30 p.m.—Bob's v. Bauer's; 8 p.m.—Roberts-Skyline v. Bair-Burmood winner; 9:30 p.m.—Bair-Burmood loser v. King's-Flynn loser.

Grid Cards Cut Ex-Iowa Back

Lake Forest, Ill. (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals of the National Football League today cut former Iowa quarterback Gary Snook. He was put on waivers.

If no NFL team claims Snook, he indicated he will play for Los Angeles in the Continental League this season and report to the Cardinal training camp next season.

Snook recently completed two years of Army service.

NFO Presents GOPs 5-Point Ag Plan

Corning, Iowa (UPI) — Citing the "vote in rural America this year is a swing vote," the president of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) presented a five point program Wednesday to the Republican Platform Committee in Miami, Fla.

In a statement released from the NFO's national headquarters here, Oren Lee Staley said the farm vote this year "will go to the candidates and party that pledge action rather than promises."

"The vote in rural America this year is a swing vote," Staley said. "This vote is fed up with the political promises of both parties, but with little action."

NFO Philosophy

Staley's program outlined points to back up collective bargaining for the American farmer, the main position of the NFO philosophy.

The NFO leader said price supports for basic commodities should be raised "at once to the maximum allowed by law, in most cases 90% of parity." Staley said this should be followed by legislation giving farmers "opportunity for self determination."

Staley said the secretary of agriculture should be empowered to determine the necessary strategic food reserve to be financed by the entire nation. He said levels of supports should be established by "varying degrees, starting with 90% downward."

Varied Controls

"Strict controls should be established at high levels of parity," he said, "and less controls at lower levels."

In other points, Staley called for the extension of the food stamp plan and other such programs "for the purpose of getting food into empty stomachs for people who are hungry."

He said large corporations must not be allowed to monopolize the food industry and that legislation should be passed "defining the food industry as retailing, processing, and producing of food."

Hits Corporations

"No corporation should be involved in more than one segment of the food industry," Staley said. "This would keep vertical integration in its proper position and keep corporate agriculture from destroying family type farms."

Staley also said farming must not be used as a tax deductible item for outside investors, and that it must "stand on its own profit and loss position."

"Adequate credit must be made available to farmers," Staley said in his final point. "But this can only serve a useful purpose if farm prices return a fair profit on the investment."

Huskerville Area House Damaged

Vandals caused more than $100 worth of damage to a vacant house in the Huskerville area, police reported Wednesday.

Police said the vandals tore up the tile floors in the kitchen and the bathroom, shot air gun pellets into walls of the house and completely smashed a telephone.

The house, located at 3246 Zeamer Circle, had been vacant for about two months, police said.

Cost Of Working Puts Her In Debt

New Philadelphia, Ohio (AP) —The rising cost of working has caught up with Dolores Detrio.

July 4 fell during her vacation from Snyder Mfg. Co. and the holiday produced an additional pay check for $14.48. But pay check deductions for taxes, union dues, hospitalization and a union pledge came to $14.74.

"I owe somebody 26 cents," Mrs. Detrio said.

30% KSC Faculty Hold Doctorates

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney State College officials said over 30% of the teaching faculty at the school have their doctorates.

Of the more than 250 on the faculty, more than 75 have earned their doctor of education or doctor of philosophy degrees.

Twenty of the total received their doctorates from the University of Nebraska.

SCLC Official Asks Daley To Remove White Policemen From Black Chicago

Chicago (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has called on Mayor Richard J. Daley to remove white policemen, firemen and other city employes from Negro neighborhoods in Chicago. He said the city "is on the brink of a volcanic eruption."

Jackson, national director of operation breadbasket, an economic arm of the SCLC, said he sent a letter last weekend to the mayor requesting the removal of the white employes "to insure their personal safety."

A spokesman for the mayor said Daley had not received the letter.

Jackson called the racial climate in Chicago similar to that in Cleveland and Gary, Ind., where racial disorders erupted recently. He termed those two cities "cinders of oppression."

"Time is short and time will not allow us the privilege to weigh all the alternatives," Jackson wrote.

"Remove the white policemen from the black neighborhods now to insure their personal safety and to insure black people's collective security.

"Remove white policemen, white firemen and other white employes now."

Jackson said he made the demand "not out of hate for white people, but out of respect for ourselves."

Choice Steers Sell At Firm To 25c Higher

Omaha (AP) — Buyers on the Omaha Livestock Market Tuesday were busy handling perhaps the most attractive outlay of steers seen here yet this summer.

Numerous loads of high-choice and prime long-fed steers were unloaded at firm to 25 cents higher prices. Steer top moved to $29.25 for a load of 1,317 lb. black and black-whitefaces from Robert Potter, Saunders County, Nebraska. That ticket was the best since April, 1966. Uffy Buhl, Platte County, had a load of 1,433 pounders that took a $29 ticket scaleward.

Heifers were fully steady to 25c higher, however, the offering of choice and prime females was not quite as abundant as in the steer alleys. But heifers scaled 1,169 lbs. At $27.50 and another load 950 lbs. Turned at $27.35.

Cows continued to gain as the beef market again moved higher. Cows were 25-50 or more higher here, practical top $19 with extra good $19-19.50.

Bologna bulls were unchanged at $23.50 and down.

Butcher hogs were steady to mostly 25 lower, the steady call going to hogs meeting a special type shipping order.

Bulk 200-240 lb. leaners realized $20-20.50, well-sorted consignments $20.75-21 with around two loads at the top ticket.

Sows were steady to weak at $15.75-18.75.

Lambs were unchanged along with slaughter ewes.

Best lambs to $26.50, ewes sold $6 and down.

Corn Hits New Seasonal Lows

Chicago (AP) — Corn futures declined to new seasonal lows under a barrage of early selling on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday, but closed with an advance of 1 cent a bushel. Wheat futures also set seasonal lows in early dealings and closed on an irregular tone.

Trade was fairly active and mixed.

The early selling of corn futures was influenced by some moderately heavy hedging against purchases in the country and reports that farmers were moving old crop corn to markets in greater amounts.

Later in the session, however, active buying stimulated an advance of 1⅜ cents above the day's lows.

In the wheat pit, early hedging and a government report that the 1969 carryover might be more than first estimated and that exports might not reach a hoped-for goal tended to influence selling that set seasonal lows.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel lower, September 1.24; corn was unchanged to 1 cent higher, September 1.06½; oats were unchanged to ⅛ lower, September 60½ cents; rye was ½ to ⅞ higher, September 1.12½; and soybeans were ⅜ lower to ¾ higher, August 2.66⅞.

PIN-WORMS

AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Leukemia Victim Gets Her First Trip Via Plane

McCook (UPI) — Six-year-old Ellen Kay Jilg took her first plane trip Tuesday — a ride to Omaha for treatment of leukemia.

Ellen Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jilg of McCook, flew to Omaha with her mother as a gesture from the employes of Frontier Airlines. Although the airline couldn't donate the tickets, the employes contributed enough to buy them.

A fund established by the First National Bank in McCook has financed a bus or train trip to Omaha for treatment about every six weeks.

New Fire Station For Tilden OKd

Tilden (AP) — Voters at Tilden have approved a $22,000 bond issue for erection of a new fire station. Total cost of the station is expected to be about $37,000, with the balance being paid by the Rural Fire District. The vote was 178 to 32 in favor.

House Approves College Students' Loan Guarantees

Washington (UPI) — The House Wednesday gave final congressional approval to a temporary one per cent increase in the interest ceiling on the popular guaranteed loans for college students, and extended the program on an emergency basis for three months.

The measure, sent to the White House on a voice vote after action by the Senate on Tuesday, would extend the program to Nov. 1. Congressional authorization had expired June 30.

Backers of the measure said raising the interest ceiling from six per cent to seven per cent is necessary to attract more private loans for the program. Students borrow from private lenders but the loan is guaranteed by the government, which also pays the interest while the student is in college.

Full extension of the program is included in differing Senate and House higher education bills now before a conference committee. The panel met briefly Tuesday but adjourned without agreement, until Septmeber.

Safety Board Attributes Crash To Pilot, Crew

Washington (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday a jet airliner that collided with a light plane near Dayton, Ohio, March 9, 1967, was flying 83 miles an hour faster than the airplane speed limit for the area.

The Board attributed the accident, in which all 26 persons in the two planes were killed, to the jet's excessive speed and to failure of its crew to see and avoid the small plane.

It said that in congested terminal areas such as Dayton, there is a mix of high-speed and low-speed aircraft, with the former operating under instrument flight rules (IFR) and some of the latter flying visually (VFR) without instruments.

Under these circumstances, the Board said, the current air traffic control system is unable to provide an appropriate level of safety.

It said that in such areas one solution may be to restrict operations to aircraft flying by instruments.

A collision avoidance device also is greatly needed, the board said.

The Trans World Airlines DC9 jet involved in the collision was approaching for a landing, with 21 passengers and a crew of four on a flight scheduled from New York City to Chicago by way of Harrisburg, Pa., Pittsburgh, and Dayton.

The TWA plane was operating on an IFR flight plan in visual weather conditions, descending from 20,000 feet to 3,000 feet, and 18 seconds before the collision was advised that there was southbound slow-moving traffic one mile away "at 12:30," the clock-wise term for direction.

Business Flight

The traffic referred to was a Tann Co. Beechcraft Baron at an altitude of 4,500 feet, on a business flight planned from Detroit to Springfield, Ohio.

The board said that the Beechcraft was not under the control of or in radio contact with any FAA air traffic control facility and there was no requirement for the pilot to contact any FAA air traffic control facility.

There was no information to indicate that the DC9 crew ever saw the light plane.

The flight recorder recovered from the DC9 showed the plane was traveling at just over 371 miles an hour at the time of the collision.

"The excess speed contributed to the accident in that it reduced the available time for the crew of either aircraft to see and avoid the other or for the controller to take appropriate action," the board said.

LIGHT TANKS READY FOR PROTEST

A couple of light tanks are shown parked in front of the Metropolitan Cathedral on the west side of Mexico City's main square as another demonstration by students was reported to be brewing Wednesday. At least one person died and scores were injured in a series of riots by preparatory school students in the last two days.

But- DEAF INITELY

by C. W. Strom
Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist

How can deficient hearing be discovered in a child?
I have told you about how this can be done during the first year of life. Alert parents will discover that from one year to two that the child does not have a jargon which sounds like he is trying to imitate the patterns of speech he hears around him.
The child should have words like "mama," "dada" and "no" and sounds which stand for words like "bye bye," "more," "all gone," etc. Next week I will give you some clues on children from two to three years of age.
If there is any indication of a hearing loss bring it to the attention of your pediatrician or Ear Doctor.

British Authorities Turn Away Adherents To 'Scientology' Cult

New York Times Service

London — On successive days this week groups of Americans headed for Britain have been turned back because they are followers of a semireligious cult known as "scientology."

The Bar on Scientologists, as they call themselves, was imposed by the British government after a study. The minister of health, Kenneth Robinson, told the House of Commons he was satisfied that "scientology is socially harmful." He said:

"Its authoritarian principles and practices are a potential menace to the personality and well-being of those so deluded as to become its followers."

Action Denounced

The government's action has been bitterly denounced by officials of the group. A spokesman, David Gaiman, accused the police of tapping wires in their inquiry and said:

"We are in the middle of the biggest witch-hunt since the reign of James the Second."

Scientology was founded in the United States by L. Ron Hubbard, who in 1950 published a best-seller called "Dianetics: The Modern Science of Mental Health." two years later he switched to scientology.

Scientology is difficult to define. The organization's periodical, "The Auditor," calls it an "applied religious philosophy" and also says it is "the largest mental health organization in the world." In California there is a Church of Scientology.

Initiates Questioned

Initiates are questioned at length about their most intimate life in order to release what are called their "engrams" — unhappy memories. There thus seems to be a parallel to psychoanalysis, though without medical or other professional training.

The cult members do the questioning, and they use an "E-meter." This is a device that measures electrical resistance — Hubbard has demonstrated it on tomatoes as well as people. He says it indicates the level of spirit in the body.

In 1959 Hubbard set up a world headquarters of scientology in East Grinstead, Susex, a London suburb. The organization bought a large old house in East Grinstead, Saint Hill Manor.

There are now about 50 full scientologists in East Grinstead, and 250 students. There are hundreds, perhps thousands, of others in England.

Relatives Complain

There have been complaints, some raised in Parliament, by friends and relatives of initiates. They charge that mentally disturbed or weak persons are taken into the cult and taught to hate their families.

The ministry of health acted on the basis of these complaints. Robinson told Parliament that he had "no power under existing law to prohibit the practice of scientology" but would take steps "to curb its growth."

The first and most significant move has been to declare that the institution in East Grinstead is not a "college," as asserted, and hence no one may enter the country as a "student" to go there.

Britain is highly restrictive on visas to tnis country. It is extremely difficult to be admitted for paid employment, and students have to show some evidence of their status. Only tourists enter freely.

Ohio Army Reservists Sue For Fifth Amendment Rights

Baltimore, Md. (AP) — A group of Army reservists from Ohio, claiming a call to two years active duty violated their constitutional rights, will be given a court hearing Thursday.

Judge Frank A. Kaufman of U.S. District Court will hear arguments on whether the 113 men should be released. They contend their enlistment contracts were violated without due process of law under the equal protection of the laws provision of the Fifth Amendment.

The men were members of the 1002nd Supply and Service Company on inactive duty in Cleveland when ordered to active duty effective last May 13. Three days later, the unit moved to Ft. Meade, Md., as the 1002nd Combat Support Company.

Suit Brought

Contending the action was "void, invalid and without legal effect," the Ohioans brought suit last week against Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford, Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor; Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, and the commanding officers of Ft. Meade and the First Army, headquartered at Meade.

The petition to the court says each of the men enlisted in the Army reserve before Oct. 15, 1966, with an obligation to serve six years of inactive duty, and no more than 17 days a year on active duty, after serving on active duty for training.

Otherwise, it said, they may be called to active duty "only in time of war or national emergency declared by Congress or . . . by the President after Jan. 1, 1953."

Distinction Seen

The Ohioans contend the law makes a distinction between reservists called up as a unit, as in their case, and those called up as individuals. It "credits individual reservists with previous active duty for training, but does not so credit members of a unit so ordered," they said.

"It appears there is no rational basis for this distinction," said counsel for the Ohioans, Mrs. Elsbeth Levy Bothe of Baltimore and Nathan R. Zahm of Sherman Oaks, Calif.

The court is asked to order each of the 113 released from active duty and placed back on inactive duty "within a reasonable commuting distance from his residence."

The government has not responded to the suit.

Beauty Pageant Board Chooses Negro Director

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP) — The Miss America Pageant Corp. Wednesday named the first Negro to its board of directors in its 47-year history.

The pageant, frequently criticized by civil rights groups in recent years for its lack of Negro contestants and directors, chose the Rev. Canon Kenneth E. MacDonald, an Episcopal minister here.

The Rev. Mr. MacDonald, 51, is one of 27 pageant board members.
